PDS Students Learn That Russians Brand Protesters as Traitors

Just about the time a planeload of Jewish refugees from Russia landed at the Tel Aviv airport, a group of Princeton Day School students were inside the Kremlin, watching a lone, Jewish demonstrator.

"He walked straight towards us, with his arms stretched up holding a banner, 'Allow Jews to Emigrate,'" Alison Ellis said on her return here. "And the people were mocking him. It was a sad sight."

When the Intourist guide refused to translate the banner, the PDS Russian teacher, Daniel Skvir, obliged. The bystanders' open derision, he said later, reflected the official view that "anyone who wants to leave the Soviet Union is a traitor."

As the PDS group moved on, Mr. Skvir turned for another look at the demonstrator. "He was gone."

There were eight PDS students on the spring vacation trip, joined by four boys from the Lawrenceville School. Mr. Skvir and his wife were the escorts. During the 12 days of their Russian tour, they touched heavily on the historical and culture spots and lightly on contacts with the Russian people. They tried out their high school Russian whenever they could.

"I would have liked to have gone into a Russian house," Laura Kaysen of Olden Lane said last week when the group talked it over at PDS.

They saw and sometimes talked with Chinese, North Vietnamese, Arabians, East Germans, West Germans and Swedes, often staying in the same hotels, but they were not able to speak to many Russians.

"We looked odd by Russian standards. We were stared at a lot," John Levzorek of Brookstone commented, "but I spoke Russian to them when I could, and people warmed to me."

"The question that was asked most about our students was, 'Is it a boy or a girl?'" Mr. Skvir smiled. "And people were shocked when they found Americans speaking Russian to them."

"What you don't know, Mr. Skvir — until now — is that, believe it or not, John and I went for a walk one night about 10 and met three Russian boys about our age." Mr. Skvir gave Chris Burt of 108 Mercer Street an inscrutable look.

"The boys started following us. They were neighborly and nice. I couldn't figure out at first why one of them kept making this gesture, (flicking his finger against his neck). It meant he wanted to get drunk. We said we didn't have any money. He said he would treat, but we still said no.

"Then one of them said he had two sisters . . . He kept holding up two fingers, two! They kept trying to entice us. A policeman came along and asked the boys if they were changing money. When they said no, he went away, but in a little while another policeman came along and sent us all home." Chris beamed at his Russian teacher.

Mr. Skvir looked noncommital.

The group visited Tschaikowsky's birthplace and a school where

SIXTEEN DAYS LATER: Spring arrived on March 21, but more than two weeks later, Princeton and much of the eastern seaboard looked as if winter had just begun. Storm, accompanied by sharp lightning, created unusual trouble because snowplowing equipment had been put in mothballs.

This Is Princeton

SNOW? IT'S SPRING!

But Green Turns to White. The heaviest spring storm in well over a decade dumped two to four inches of unwelcome snow on the New Jersey countryside this week.

Starting as rain around noon Tuesday, the major disturbance moved up the Atlantic Coast and turned to snow shortly after dark when it collided with colder air pumping in from the north. The turbulent system dominating the atmosphere also created one of nature's phenomena — sharp lightning and peals of thunder. The latter sounded strangely like hollow laughter.

For those caught on slick streets and highways, in many cases after they had thoughtfully removed snow tires, there was little humor in the Weather Man's transgressions. Nor was the loss of power (temporary) or the permanent loss of big branches from valued trees a laughing matter to those affected.

In Princeton Township, motorists had trouble negotiating hills as the snow began to stick shortly after 8 o'clock. Municipal and state highway crews were far later in plowing and sanding than normal; not only had there been no forecast of snow problems but the equipment had been stored in the belief that in April, at least, it couldn't happen here.

Power Out. Homes in the Great Road area, as well as Cherry Valley and Drakes Corner Road, were without light as wires were felled by the unusually heavy snow. The Witherspoon Maclean section in the Borough suffered similar fate, and a tree was down on Maclean. That took out the wire connecting the police-fire alarm box to Borough Hall.

Snowden Lane, Province Line Road, Edgerstoune, Mercer and Quakerbridge roads were others which lost part or all of trees bordering them. In some cases, removal was necessary before traffic could proceed.

Another victim of the severe weather was New Jersey's brand new UHF television station, Channel 52, which may well have been hit by the ubiquitous lighting. WNJT had gone on the air for the first time Monday but Tuesday night about 7:40, lost its picture.

A little more than an hour later, it went off the air entirely. Part of the the decision to do so was precautionary — engineers felt that if the station was not transmitting, the possibility of further damage might be lessened.

The tower, visible for several miles from its base in Lawrence Township along U.S. Route 1, is the tallest structure in New Jersey.

FOUNDED FOR PROFIT?

Magazine's Status Challenged. Princeton Township could pick up another $7-10,000 in taxes if a publishing enterprise known as "Business Today" turns out to have been organized for profit, rather than for non profit.

According to The Daily Princetonian, University undergraduate newspaper, Business Today withheld from University officials the fact that it was incorporated for profit and obtained space in a University-owned building which has been on the Township's tax exempt list.

The building is 171 Broadmead, the old Princeton Country Day School building. Business Today has been occupying part of the structure according to Stuart Robson, Township tax assessor.

Mr. Robson says he received a citizen complaint last fall that part of 171 was being used for profit purposes. Last November, when the Township was making its annual check of tax-exempt properties, Mr. Robson asked municipal attorney Gordon Griffin to confer with the University's rental agent, Kenneth Rendall Jr., about the status of Business Today.

Mr. Rendall was asked to obtain a copy of the firm's certificate of incorporation. As of Monday, Mr. Robson reported, Mr. Griffin had not yet been sent a copy.

"We're waiting for that report," Mr. Robson says, adding that if Business Today's activities change the tax exempt character of 171, the Township could gain $7-10,000 in tax dollars.

The Princetonian's story is that the Township asked Ricardo A. Mestres, the University's financial vice-president, for verification of Business Today's tax exempt status.

The magazine revealed, says the Daily Princetonian, that it had been chartered in Virginia as a profit making corporation.

The University then gave Business Today the choice between retaining its profit making status and moving out of the University's building, or staying at 171 and reincorporating on a non profit basis.

Business Today decided to re-incorporate, according to the Princetonian, and became the non-profit "Foundation for Student Communication" on February 11 of this year.

PDS Goes to Russia

Pushkin studied. They saw several Leningrad buildings where Dostoyevsky lived and wrote. They visited the Youssoupoff palace where Rasputin was murdered, and boarded the famous ship "Aurora," which fired the first shots of the Russian Revolution.

They were unable to get in touch with Maria Sergeyevna Lebedeva, former exchange teacher at Princeton High School, but they did tour a vocational school for girls stopping for a bit in the tailoring class.

"I asked in Russian if any of the girls spoke English," Laura Kaysen reported, "and one said she did. But when I asked her if she would answer some questions, she said 'no'."

"You probably got the word order wrong," Diana Walsh inserted, explaining the Russian word order in such exchanges as "You are sick, are you not?" "Yes, I am not."

A Bombed Out Palace. They had a lively interest in everything: Catharine the Great's summer palace ("It was totally bombed and 13 rooms have been restored. They are very beautiful."); the Russian rock 'n roll bands they heard in the hotels ("supermarket music!"); the architecture and condition of buildings ("The Russians love statistics: this building can hold so and so many people").

And they saw Lenin's portrait in technicolor everywhere. "It was incredible. The biggest street is Lenin Street, the biggest building is Lenin building."

Moscow seemed "like New York City in winter — everything sort of repressed." The mood was lighter in Kiev in the Ukraine, where they were settled into a motel at the fringe of the city while the Ukraine Soviet Socialist Republic Congress met in the center of town. Here they found "more posters of Lenin than in Moscow, bu there were kids with longer hair!"

But Leningrad was the place they liked the most, and some would enjoy going there for a longer say. "It was the best. We were in a beautiful hotel in a beautiful square, near a cathedral. Right opposite Red Square!"

Brandless Food. They toured a supermarket ("There are no brands; prunes are prunes!") and visited three ancient cities near Moscow. They attended performances of the Bolshoi and Kiev ballets and flew on the Soviet airline, Aeroflot. "It took off like that — straight up."

As for food, they reported with typical teen concern: "It was pretty good. And tons of it — like lunch would be a heavy soup, bread, appetizer, then meat and potatoes."

"The only thing we had trouble with," Jeff Schuss of Skillman summed up "was with the soft drinks. They served gingerale with lemon and tons of sugar."

"Their Intourist guide fascinated them. "She was fantastic. She was one of us. In fact, she was the one who started the snowball fights. She was a native of Leningrad and married to a film producer and she'd acted in some films."

It was a second trip to Russia for Carl Sturken, who'd like to go again "and see other parts of Russia — the outer limits." Irene Wellington of Hibben Road would like to have seen Georgia and Siberia.

"Everything was interesting because it was so different," Alison Ellis said for all.

BOARD REORGANIZES

Aod Looks to the Future. Robert Bierman was elected president of the Princeton Regional School Board by a 6-3 vote at Monday night's reorganization meeting, and Henry Powsner was named vice-president by a 5-4 vote.

In each case, the defeated member was Winthrop Pike. He was nominated for both posts by fellow board member Philip Cruickshank, and seconded for each nomination by William Marvel.

This was the first board meeting for the two new members, Hannah Fox and C. George Fitzgerald, and the first meeting since his re-election for Dr. Marvel.

Voting for the two offices was by secret, written and unsigned ballot. It was not announced how the ballots were cast.

Later, however, Mrs. Kathleen Edwards said that she had voted for Dr. Bierman for president and for Mr. Pike for vice-president.

Alignment Changes. Until last spring, the standard board alignment was 6-3, with Mrs. Edwards, Mr. Pike and Dr. Cruikshank frequently voting on the same side.

Late in the spring, Dr. Marvel began casting many of his votes with them, and since that time, the balloting has shifted to a 5-4 balance on most vital issues.

Referring to post-election news stories last week speculating that Dr. Bierman and Dr. Powsner would be the new officers, Mrs. Edwards said she didn't think the choice should be pre-determined even before the new board had met.

"I would have preferred one from each camp," she stated. "Mr. Pike is an experienced and very knowledgeable man and I wanted a Bierman-Pike package but it didn't work out that way.

"I voted for Dr. Bierman because a 5-4 vote is not a strong vote," she explained. "A 6-3 vote is a stronger majority."

Dr. Marvel declared that he was "vastly disappointed" in the Pierman-Powsner election because he wanted a Bierman-Pike combination.

"It would have been a set of symbols to the community," he commented. "I had hopes for bringing the board together both symbolically and in reality."

Three Day Campaign. He said he spent the weekend and Monday talking with board members and urging them to accept a Bierman-Pike ticket.

"Win Pike is the most experienced man on the board, and to have had him with Bierman would have meant representation by the two schools of thought," Dr. Marvel said. "It is not the role of members with differing views to lie down and play dead."

He added that he was not prepared to vote for Dr. Bierman unless Mr. Pike were part of the slate. He said he was very weary of the opposition line" that he himself was a divisive influence on the board.

"I appreciated Dr. Marvel's efforts in trying to get the board together — he was most sincere, but his offer was it HAD to be Pike for vice-president," explained Dr. Powsner. "It is true that Win Pike has worked hard for the longest number of years on the board, with onquestioning loyalty to the school system.

"But my own feeling is that it would not be helpful to faculty or administration to have a president and vice-president whose philosophies seem in conflict. Functioning will be smoother if, when the president is away, he can count on the vice-president."

A Look Ahead. Dr. Powsner revealed that he had approached Dr. Bierman in November to ask whether he would be willing to serve as president if the election went that way. Dr. Bierman agreed, Dr. Powsner said.

After the election last week Dr. Powsner said he conferred with Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Evelyn Geddes and Mr. Fitzgerald, all of whom agreed that Dr. Bierman should be president and he, Dr. Powsner, vice president.

Committees. Assignments of board members to various committees was made at Monday night's meeting. Mr. Pike, who has been budget-finance man for many years, said he'd have to think about it before accepting the post again.

Dr. Cruickshank, appointed to the committee with him, questioned the wisdom of appointing two members whose board terms expire at the end of this year, but he accepted anyway.

Negotiators with the teachers, administrators and other staff will be Dr. Cruickshank, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Fox.

Dr. Marvel will continue in Long-Range Planning, joined by Mr. Fitzgerald.

Dr. Bierman said the year ahead was sure to be "eventful" but would also be, he felt, "increasingly harmonious."

GRAND JURY NEXT STOP

For Cross Burning Suspects. The three men who have been charged with the burning of a cross in Princeton on February 22 have been ordered by a Princeton judge to face grand jury action.

At a hearing for probable cause held in Borough court last week, Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr., after two hours of testimony, ordered Paul Woldanski, 34, and Louis Martz, 32, of Hamilton Township, and George Hupfl, 35, of West Amwell Township, held over. In his decision, Judge Tams stated that "an unbroken chain of events" after the cross burning at the World War I Memorial here had been presented by police witnesses that linked the three sufficiently to the cross burning to warrant grand jury action.

Mr. Woldanski, who has also been charged with burning crosses in Hightstown, was arrested Sunday in Hightstown during an anti-Ku Klux Klan demonstration. He was charged with carrying concealed weapons, along with three others, after police searched his car and found lead-lined "zap" gloves. All four were released in $500 bail.

Mr. Woldanski was the only one represented by counsel at the Princeton hearing. His lawyer, Somerville attorney Richard J. Schachter, said that he plans to argue that the New Jersey law passed in 1967 that classifies cross burning as a desecration of a religious symbol is unconstitutional.

Mr. Schachter spent much of the hearing, which was conducted under the canopy of television cameramen, a court artist and some 40 spectators, fencing with Russell W. Annich Jr., the Borough prosecutor. Repeatedly, Mr. Annich protested that Mr. Schachter's questions were irrelevant to the hearing, whose purpose was not to determine the innocence or guilt of the defendants.

Mr. Annich presented only two witnesses—Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Ptl. Anthony Ranzone. Sgt. Procaccino recalled coming to the scene of the burning a few minutes after coming on duty at 11 p.m. and helping to extinguish the 7-by 4-foot cross that had been wrapped in kerosene soaked canvas. He said he found a book of matches and a plastic bag at the foot of the cross.

Ptl. Ranfone testified that as he sat in an unmarked car nearby he noticed a white Cadillac slow down and three men peer out at the burning site. He followed it to the Ivy Inn on Nassau Street.

There Sgt. Procaccino searched the car and reported finding books of matches similar to the one he found at the cross site, of detecting the smell of kerosene in the car. Ptl. Ranfone said that he smelled Mr. Martz's hands and they carried the distinct smell of kerosene.

Still later, armed with a warrant, Ptl. Ranfone searched Mr. Martz' apartment and reported finding plastic bags and an assortment of Klan literature and application forms.

CIVIL MEASURE TABLED

In Township. Safety, finances and civil rights occupied Township Committee in a brisk Monday night session.

A civil disturbances measure was unanimously tabled after Mrs. William Broadwater protested that it gave too much power to the executive. As written, the code amendment gives the mayor the power to declare a civil emergency.

Mrs. Broadwater, who told Committee she didn't think the ordinance was necessary to begin with, proposed that at least two other members of Township Committee be required to join with the mayor both in declaring an emergency, and announcing its end. She was asked to present her suggestions in writing for Committee's consideration.

The disorderly persons amendment, which brings Township regulations in line with current constitutional interpretations, was passed, 5-0.

Safety. Committeeman John D. Wallace joined Police Chief Fred Porter in urging a review of the Township's swimming pool ordinance to tighten the fencing requirements, and Mayor James A. Floyd said he had conferred with Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and officials of the Penn Central on increasing safety precautions at the Faculty Road grade crossing where two young women were recently killed.

Borough Councilman Martin Lombardo crossed the municipal line to ask if Township Committee would follow Council's lead and kill a state request to raise the speed limit on Harrison Street to 35 m.p.h. The Township's Traffic Safety Committee is ready to agree to the request.

Committee decided not to introduce the Harrison ordinance chiefly because there is some confusion whether Harrison Street South should be included. It's a county-owned road. This question will have to be resolved. Committee decided, before the ordinance can be presented.

Finances. The Township expects bids on its $300,000 bond issue May 3. But before that date, Township officials will put on conservative business suits, straighten the narrow tie and appear before the Moody Rating Service, hoping to get an increase from the present AA bond rating to AAA.

Princeton Township has the highest rating in the state, but no municipality in all of New Jersey has the coveted triple A rating, said Committeeman John D. Wallace, who will be one of the petitioners before Moody. "If anybody in New Jersey can get it, we think we can," he added, "At least, we're going to try."

If the Township is successful, it would mean a slightly lower interest rate. Officials will be joined by former Committeeman William L. Wilson, an expert in finance. The municipality also has the blessing of the Finance Section of the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

William Cherry, from the audience, raised the question of legal fees for bond issues. Administrator Joseph R. Nini reported that the Township will pay slightly over $7,000 for the $800,000 issue to the legal firm of Gordon Griffin, Township attorney and to Thomas P. Cook, Conservation Commission attorney. Some parts of the bond issue relate to the acquisition of open space.

Another $2,000 will probably be charged by the New York bond counsel, for a total of 1 1-1/2% of the issue, Mr. Nini said.

Six years ago, when the Township last went to the bond market with around $900,000,

Came six days late!

Fooled worst of all was the Weather Man, who as late as Tuesday around 7 p.m. was still predicting "snow changing to rain," and never a word about all that odd-ball thunder and lightning.

Now the search for spring is on all over again. Milder temperatures Thursday will hasten the snow's departure, but everything everywhere will remain pretty soggy.

April Fool it was, all right. The three inches that fell were more than we got in the entire month of February.

Come Talk About Parking

Everybody is invited to Borough Hall next Tuesday at 8 p.m. (it's Borough Council night) to talk about Princeton's favorite subject — parking.

Overnight parking, or the prohibition thereof, will be the chief topic, but anyone who wants to talk about parking generally, will be invited to take the floor.

Those who come will have to listen to Council business, but it promises to be interesting. Councilman John Strange will introduce an ordinance repealing an ordinance passed only four months ago.

That's the help-your-policeman law which drew a lot of fire before it finally passed, 6 0. But that was another Council without the three new members who now sit in Borough Hall, so Mr. Strange is going to try for repeal.

Ordinances up for public hearing include a pair authorizing purchase of $84,250 worth of compacting equipment to do the work of the lamented incinerator; an ordinance shifting "no parking" from one side of University Place to the other so that Edwards Place will be somewhat safer and an ordinance wiping from the map a paper road across Marquand Park.

Charles Cornforth will introduce the ordinance making the Borough's commitment to the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. Each municipality in the proposed Authority must take this step. Once the Authority is established, it will negotiate financial and service contracts with the participating municipalities. This step, emphasizes Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, doesn't limit the Borough's freedom on financial arrangements with the Authority.

legal costs were only 1-4 to 1/2%. However, the current issue represents seven different parcels, including a pair of complex land acquisitions for open space, Mr. Nini pointed out.

Committee approved the agreement with the Borough and the University for sharing the cost of acquiring the 29-acre Girl Scout property near the incinerator and dump.

The total appropriation is $105,000. The three parties share $60,062, the rest of the amount being made up through sale of Scout House, on the sewer property, for about $39,000 and $5,000 for sale of an easement through the sewer property of Transcontinental Pipeline.

Half the $60,000 will be charged off to the sewer and half to the incinerator and the three parties will pay according to how much of the facilities they use.

Right now, the Township uses about 40% of the sewer and 43% of the incincerator. For 1971, the Township share willbe $10,031. For the next two years in which the purchase is being paid off, the Township's share willrise or fall from that figure, depending on usage.

INCINERATOR MUST GO

State Orders Closing. Princeton's incinerator, whose defective metabolism has caused problems for many months, must be shut down by January 1, 1972.

The state, in the person of Thomas P. Leonard, air quality control aide, laid down the law — but gently — last Friday morning at a brief meeting with Borough and Township engineers, Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini, and Sewer Operating Committee chairman Foster Jacobs.

The incinerator will probably be closed before the deadline, however. The SOC is planning a "transfer station" consisting of a heavy duty tractor and a compactor, which will compact and haul away Princeton's 35 daily tons of trash.

The destination for the impacted trash will probably be a dump near Jamesburg, Mr. Nini reported to Township Committee Monday night.

Everybody hopes the compactor can begin work "in 32 weeks," Mr. Nini said, meaning sometime in November. The equipment must be ordered, delivered and then tested.

Then What? The SOC sees three alternatives for the future: within a month, the county's consultant will probably make a preliminary report on regional trash disposal and if that report and subsequent reports look good, the Township may take that route; if co-operation with the county doesn't seem feasible, the SOC can either rip down the present incinerator and build a brand new one, or remodel the one it has.

"The compactor is a stop gap, enabling us to survive," is the way Mr. Jacobs phrases it. He hopes for a permanent solution in three or four years.

"We thought the state was very fair," commented Dean Chace, of Township Committee, "I don't feel they're trying to use Princeton as a whipping boy at all."

At Township Committee Monday night, William Cherry protested that using compact garbage for landfill wasn't much better than allowing a defective incinerator to operate.

Mr. Chace shrugged, "We

33½ Tons Collected in Recycling Drive

With 96 volunteers manning its production line, the Conservation Coalition processed 33½ tons of glass, paper and aluminum at the second recycling drive last Saturday, almost doubling the amount collected the first drive, February 27.

Some 900 families, about 400 more than last time, brought 16 tons of glass, 17½ tons of paper and 375 pounds of aluminum to the pick-up site in the student parking lot off Faculty Road to be processed by a volunteer crew of housewives, businessmen, high school and college students, boy scouts and other organizations.

The coalition also augmented its slender budget with the collection of $30, representing 120 shirts emblazoned with the coalition's symbol by the silk-screening crew. It plans to repeat the idea at the next collection scheduled for April 24.

have no choice."

He assured Mr. Cherry that the state doesn't seem to have any sanitary problems with this kind of landfill. He added that, while most people believe no incinerator could possibly meet state standards, Princeton's incinerator wouldn't meet any standards at all.

FUND TO MAKE IT UP

Agencies to Get Full Allotment. "If you don't do it, it won't get done," was the Princeton United Fund slogan this year, but it turned out not to be so.

The Fund announced this week that it will make up, out of its own surplus, the $61,000 by which the 1970 goal fell short. Fund agencies will receive their full allocations for 1971.

"This doesn't deplete our reserves, but it comes close," commented Fund president Max D. Blumenfeld. He said the Fund, for some years, has set aside emergency money and also has the interest accumulated from short-term savings certificates. These reserves can be used for such new programs as last year's Child Guidance drug Project and are now being used to plug the $61,000 gap.

"We've never had to do this before," Mr. Blumenfeld continued, "but there comes a time when the money should be returned to the community that gave it."

He pointed out that in spite of the $61,000 shortage, the Fund collected $75,000 more this year than last, "and the community has every right to be pleased."

MAN IS CHARGED

In Tavern Stabbing. Township police have charged Willie F. Webb, 49, of 49 Birch Avenue, with allegedly stabbing a man last week outside Starr's Inn, 9 Birch Avenue.

He has been released in $500 bail to await a Township court hearing scheduled for Wednesday.

The victim, Alex Rodrigues, 24, 199 John Street, was taken to Princeton Hospital where 70 sutures were required to close a gash in his neck. Police said that the two men had argued outside the tavern prior to the stabbing.

GREENHOUSE DAMAGED

By Vandals. Between 20 and 25 windows of a greenhouse at the rear of 79 Bayard Lane, near the Merwick Nursing Home, were broken Sunday by stone-throwing vandals. The greenhouse is owned by Princeton Hospital.

Police said that an additional 25 windows — measuring 7 by 11 inches — were cracked. The stones were thrown from the YMCA playground which borders the property, police said.

The damage was reported by Robert Buchanan, a caretaker. It is being investigated by Thomas Procaccino, the Borough's juvenile officer.

RAILROAD OWES TAXES

To West Windsor. The Penn Central hasn't been making a stop lately at the West Windsor tax office.

Tax officials in West Windsor say that the railroad hasn't paid either its third or fourth quarter 1970 taxes, and is in arrears $2,254.

Most of West Windsor's railroad income is derived from the state's railroad tax, and the municipality expects $10,910 from that source in 1971. Penn Central owns six parcels of land in West Windsor, and the tax bill is due on those plots.

West Windsor charges 8% interest, unless the tax bill is over $1,000 and then the interest jumps to 10%. However, each of Penn Central's six pieces of land is below the $1,000 mark and since the assessments are made separately, Penn Central will only have to pay 8%.

The Borough of Princeton gets some railroad money, too, but like most of West Windsor's, it comes from the state. It amounts to $1,528 a year, chiefly because of the University Place railroad station.

The segment of track in Princeton Township is so short that the Township does not qualify for state aid under the railroad property tax law.

Debate Increases over Need for Night Swimming in Summer

The Princeton Recreation Board, no stranger to controversy, is rapidly finding itself in the middle of a new one.

At issue is the question of night swimming at Community Park pools. The board is not opposed to the idea but wants to wait until it has the results of a community-wide survey it is planning — a portion of which is devoted to night swimming.

"We're hesitant, quite honestly, to go right ahead and put lights in until we get better measure of interest from the community," commented Sanford Reynolds, chairman of the Joint Recreation Board at its monthly meeting last week. "We're not negative," he added, "but we don't want to pay $7,000 on a dud."

R. Donald Barr, executive director of the Recreation Department, places the figure at $10,000 or more. Six to seven thousand for the lights and the remainder in operating costs. Duct work for lights beneath the surface of the pool is completed.

The board is under increasing pressure, however, from Township Committee and Borough Council to act regardless of survey findings. "Borough Council has definitely decided it is willing to spend the money for this program," Council member Alice Male told the board last week.

"We feel that we've gotten enough feedback from people in the community as council members to warrant it," she continued. "Even if it fails, it is worth it to try; I beg you to give it a try."

Limited Basis. At Township Committee Monday night, Dean Chace, Committee liaison to the board, announced that an evening program three nights a week at the pool complex would be carried out "at least on a limited basis," subject to approval of the recreation board. He added that he hoped that the pool would serve as a rendezvous for the young and that the young people would "accept the responsibility of making it a success by appropriate behavior and by taking care of the property."

Although he agreed it was experimental and might fail, he felt it was worth what he termed "the minimal expenditure."

Mrs. Male told the board last week that Township Committee, in view of its rising taxes, wanted to try it but still remain within its present budget. As for the Borough, she said she didn't like the idea of one paying and not the other but she stated the Borough would have to face up to it and if necessary pay for it all.

She indicated that the Borough might restore $4,000 it cut from the Recreation Department's water budget after its bill last year, for some time averaging $1200 annually, unaccountably leaped to $8,000.

Questions Pile Up. Granted the desirability of night swimming, questions about it piled up at once. Who would use it? How much extra would it cost? How often would it be held? What about enforcement? Would the pools become another Nassau Street? What about lights for the tennis courts (which would probably receive heavier use than the pools) and the ball fields?

Mr. Barr is a man caught in the middle — between the swimmer and the non-swimming taxpayer. (He said funds for the lights would have to be bonded.)

"Because I haven't jumped in with both feet, people think I'm anti-recreation," he declared. "That's ridiculous. If the pool is going to be successful at night, I'm all for it. But it won't solve the Nassau Street problem and there are other problems that I see coming that have to be solved."

Mrs. Male, for example, told the board that she wanted to have restricted age groups use the pool at night — giving 16 to 22 as limits. "Kids who are mildly affluent who work in the day or those who may not go in the day but would go at night," she explained.

Councilman Martin Lombardo, on the other hand, told Mr. Barr that he would like to see night swimming limited to young adults, say, in their 30s who have to work and can't go swimming during the day.

Mr. Barr commented that perhaps they could set aside certain nights for each group.

As for the cost to the individual, one of the questions on the questionnaire, which is being prepared by John Lasley of Opinion Research, asks: "Would you be willing to pay an extra $5 to keep the pool open til 10 p.m.?" Mr. Barr acknowledged there would probably be a separate fee tacked on for night swimming.

No Faith in Surveys. Earlier, when Mr. Reynolds had defended the board's decision to rely on the survey results and said that the board didn't feel that the number of requests was an accurate barometer of the demand for night swimming, Mrs. Male commented, "I have no faith in surveys.

"This is Princeton's way of handling a problem: talk about it and then take a survey. Numbers don't matter to me. It ought to be offered as a program available to the community. I'm so sick and tired of hearing kids say there is nothing to do in Princeton. I don't pretend any of it will be easy, but none of these things ever are.

"You can survey all night and never know if it will go. You have to offer it."

A New Hangout? The kids want a new hangout, remarked Mr. Reynolds near the end of the meeting. Wilbert Brooks, a custodian in the Princeton school system shot back: "I can show you places in the school used by kids as a hangout. Sometimes hangouts can deteriorate and become pretty soiled!"

Amid the uncertainty and questions, Mr. Barr remarked that one thing was clear: the board has little time in which to act if it hopes to have a night swimming program hammered out and lights installed by opening day — Memorial Day.

STOPS FOR DIRECTIONS And Car Is Rammed. A parked car was rammed from behind last week, just moments after the driver had asked Ptl. Mario Musso of the Township police for directions.

E. F. Machin, 47, of Parlin had just entered his car and was fastening his seat belt when he was rammed from behind by a car operated by Dehorah A. Joyner, 22, of Trenton. She was taken to Princeton Hospital for treatment of contusions ofher head, lip, chest and knee.

Mrs. Joyner told Ptl. Musso that as she reached the crest of Bruere's Hill on Route 206, she noticed the police car with its light on and glanced over to see what was happening. When she turned to the right, she suddenly saw the Mackin car in front of her and could not stop in time to avoid an accident.

She was charged with careless driving; Mr. Mackin for improper parking. The accident took place at 11:33 in the evening.

Three Slightly Injured. Three persons were slightly injured early last week when their small convertible collided with a van wagon owned by the Princeton Regional School System at the intersection of Elm Road and Stockton.

Mahel A. Goldman, 39 of New York City, one of the drivers, complained of head and neck pains. Mira Goldman, 15, 475 Drakes Corner Rond, sustained a bruised knee, and Serena Goldman, 6, same address, received a bloody nose. All refused hospital treatment.

Mrs. Goldman was ticketed by Sgt. Theodore Lewis for failing to yield at a stop sign after she pulled in front ofthe school van, driven by Harold Paul, 30, of Highstown. Mrs. Goldman told Sgt. Lewis that she had stopped at the foot of Elm and had looked both ways but never saw the van until the moment of impact. Her car smashed into the side of the van in the 12:50 p.m. mishap.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS FELLED

In Route One Accidents. Traffic lights at the intersection of Alexander Road and Route One took a beating in two accidents 90 minutes apart Monday afternoon, one coming while they were inoperative during a power failure.

A fire broke out in a Plainsboro substation transformer, cutting the main line to West Windsor at 12:39 p.m. and causing a power loss to 2,354 customers as well as the traffic lights on that stretch of Route One. Sixty seconds later, cars driven by Sebastian Conte, 76, of 2 Guyot Avenue, and Harry W. Vaughn, 60, of 554 Alexander Road, collided in the intersection. Both escaped serious injury, but Mr. Conte's car knocked down one of the lights on the concrete divider.

At 2:13 p.m. after the power had returned Mrs. Lucille T. Miller, of South Post Road, narrowly escaped serious injury when a trailer truck had a brake failure when trying to stop for a red light at the same intersection. The truck nicked the back of Mrs. Miller's car as she crossed Route One, and ripped down the traffic lights in the northbound lane.

The driver, Homer P. Shelton of Greenville, Tenn., was charged with passing a red light and operating a vehicle with defective brakes.

STUDENT'S HAND BURNED In Frick Lab Explosion. A Princeton University student received second degree burns of the top of his right hand Thursday when an experiment he was conducting in Frick Lab exploded.

Robert Nahas, 20, 221 1903 Hall, was treated at the university infirmary following the explosion in the third-floor lab at 4:47 p.m. A general alarm was sounded but all fire companies were turned back after police saw they would not be needed.

Police said that the explosion occured when the student's experiment apparently overheated. Some bottles and equipment were damaged by the blast and there was a crack in the room's glass door.

TWO WALLETS STOLEN Plus Batteries, Radio. Two women's wallets, a pair of batteries and a radio were among the items Borough police reported stolen last week.

Virginia Van Wymen of Belle Mead had her black leather pocketbook stolen from a staff lounge at the Firestone Library, and Lindi Sue Hunkins, 47 Park Place, reported the theft of her wallet from her purse on her desk in Green Hall, Princeton University campus.

Mrs. Hunkins lost $15 and two personal checks; Mrs. Van Wymen, $30. Both thefts occurred on Thursday.

Robert Grosse, 223 Lockhart Hall, had a $30 battery and an air filter removed from his convertible last week while it was parked in the rear of Dial Lodge, 26 Prospect Avenue. George Marshall, 13 Quarry Street, listed a $30 battery taken from his station wagon parked in a garage at the rear of the same address.

Between 9 and 11 Saturday night, someone stole a $60 radio from a car parked in the Princeton University Store lot. Police identified the victim as Gary Moench, Springhill Road, Skillman.

THIRTEEN ARE FINED In Borough Court. Four motorists were among the 13 Princeton area residents fined by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr., Monday in Borough Court.

They are Kenneth McEwen, 45, 184 Witherspoon Street; George E. Murphy, 34, Cherry Valley Road; and Suzanna Chilling, 37, Coppermine Road, Skillman, all $25, and William K. Schantzenbach, 29, Princeton Arms, Cranbury, $18.

Three paid $15 for careless driving: Nikolaos A. Malthes, 27, 46 Park Place; Joyce S. Warren, 47, 51 Aiken Avenue; and Ruth J. Tattersall, 72, 50 Lafayette Road West. Also paying $15 fines were Henry A. Cromwell, 65, Honeyhrook Drive, passing a school bus while its lights were flashing; D. Don Richards, 42, 231 Nassau Street, disregarding a flashing red signal; and John R. Yarosh, 20, Featherbed Lane, Hopewell, operating a motorcycle without a license.

A leaking exhaust system cost Theodore S. Valis, 17, 32 Maple Street, $10, and Mark Jeffries, 297 Moore Street, paid the same amount for carrying passengers on parts of a car not intended for passengers. Annette N. Kaysen, 51, 97 Olden Lane, paid $12 for a stop sign violation.

Restauraot Size Doubled

Good Time Charley's, which opened less than 18 months ago in Kingston, has completed remodelling and additions to its property which doubled the number of rooms available for its luncheon and dining facilities. The popular restaurant is located in the center of the village on Route 27.

Music is now provided nightly. For the various types offered there, as well as at Charley's Brother on Pennington Road, Hopewell, see page 31.

ON TO "MORVEN"

500 in Welfare Protest. About 500 protestors milled around across the street from "Morven" Saturday afternoon, protesting cuts in welfare and urging Governor William T. Cahill to help end the war in Southeast Asia.

Speakers included David Dellinger one of the Chicago Seven defendants; Father James Groppi, the Catholic priest who has become prominent nationally for his leadership in civil rights causes, and Mrs. Marian Kidd, New Jersey chairman of the Welfare Rights Organization.

Many of the demonstrators had walked 10 miles from Trenton to the governor's mansion on Stockton Street. They were not allowed on "Morven's" grounds. Although the demonstration was chiefly to protest cuts in welfare rent payments to $100 a month and to put a ceiling on family aid, speakers commented on the fact that few welfare mothers showed up.

Mrs. Kidd told the gathering that if the Welfare Rights Organization forms a legislative committee, she will try to get legislators to meet with the committee.

Father Groppi said he was "sad and depressed" because no Catholic bishops were in the forefront of the protest. "If the church does not exist for the poor," he said, "it should not exist."

PLAINSBORO TO GROW

$70 Million Project Approved. The $70 million community proposed for Plainsboro moved farther along the road last week when the township's governing body told the developer to go ahead and prepare detailed plans.

Plainsboro's Township Committee accepted a planning board recommendation approving a Planned Community Development (PCD). The developer, The Lincoln Property Company of Texas, must meet several conditions listed by the planning board and seconded by township committee.

The company has agreed to Inconsiderateness Deplored.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Distressing! In fact disgusting! It must be trash-collection day (Wednesday) along South Harrison Street in Princeton.

Very neatly stacked were newspapers in front of houses (where bundles are strangely lacking on paper drive days!) These newspapers are collected by the trash men, burned in the incinerator, then inhaled by all Princetonians!

With all the opportunities for recycling even individual house pickup citizens insist on throwing away newspapers wasting a valuable resource, polluting the air. Some residents might find it too troublesome to transport their bottles, paper and aluminum on Recycling Day. But for residents living in the Harrison Nassau Lake area of Princeton, where there has been a regular paper drive the second Saturday of each month since October, I find this action (or lack there of!) insensitive and inconsiderate.

I wonder how many Princeton people actually remember what CLEAN air smelled like. Pollution has crept upon us all (heavily chlorinated water weather reports including pollution levels) a New York Times article on seven toxic metals in U.S. water supplies). We must all work to retrieve our environment from destruction.

MRS. W. M. CLARK

Loop Roads Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I read with interest your article (March 18) on the proposed loop roads for Princeton. Now, when it is very important to choose carefully where we spend our money, it seems foolish to give these roads top priority when: 1) their need now, and in the future, has not been clearly demonstrated, 2) there are many Princeton residents opposed to their construction, 3) more roads for more cars with the ensuing increase in pollution is no longer the best solution to increasing population growth.

The outer loop road would go along our present Cherry Valley Road and Province Line Road. These are two of the most attractive roads in Princeton. Alternatives, such as widening Route 206 along some parts, should certainly be considered, as this road is relatively unattractive and has light industry for a good portion of its length.

The inner loop road is indeed already partly in existence but it is not excessively used. For that matter, the Princeton-Kingston Road from Kingston to Harrison Street is not heavily traveled even during rush hours.

Completing the inner loop would involve chopping down some lovely old evergreens, dividing some open space land in half by a wide road that will then cut through a totally residential area, many of whose residents have already indicated they do not want this road. The traffic survey done by Mr. Quimby earlier indicated that most of the traffic in and out of Princeton was not through traffic but local traffic. This inner loop road in the eastern end of town is not needed to relieve any heavy local traffic as there isn't any. As for projections into the future, this end of town is already developed to near maximum capacity.

Most important, it is now time to put our energies towards improving public transportation, not towards destroying our more beautiful country places which are fast disappearing, and in general towards finding transportation solutions which call for a minimum of air and land pollution.

A Quiet Churchgoer.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Dr. Gohean has been deservedly praised for many obviously important things which he had done. I would like to say a word of praise for one of the quieter, less obviously important things which he has done, namely his consistent involvement in the life of the worshiping community which is the University Chapel.

It is an unusual Sunday when he is not present. As one of his fellow worshippers, his witness is one which I value highly.

I would also like to call your attention to a minor error on page ten of your April 1st issue. It is stated there that Princeton Theological Seminary was founded in 1811.

The Seminary may be said to have begun formally when its Board of Directors met for the first time on June 30, 1812. At that meeting, incidentally, the Rev. Ashbel Green, D.D., soon to be elected as the eighth of Dr. Gohcen's predecessors, preached the Seminary's first sermon.

Rev. ROBERT S. BEAMAN
Westerlea Arms
Hightstown

Editor's Note: The statement to which the Rev. Mr. Beaman refers was made in the forthcoming book, "A Princeton Guide." In "Princeton Past and Present," the late V. Lansing Collins wrote about the origin of Princeton Seminary:

"An agreement was reached in 1811 by a joint committee representing the college (of New Jersey) and the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church which led to the location of the Seminary at Princeton."

Recital Review Questioned.

To the editor of Town Topics:

While we have been in Princeton we have enjoyed very much the musical events offered and have been particularly impressed with your reviews. For the most part we have found your comments very much in line with our impression of the events.

It was with considerable disbelief that we read your some what enthusiastic review of the performance of Alfred Brendel (April 1.) We found his program on the dull side and his playing left a great deal to be desired.

I found his pedalling particularly objectionable inasmuch as many times the damping of the tone was so slow as to cause noticeable running together of notes which should not have carried over. All in all we were very disappointed in the performance, both from the standpoint of programming and performance.

Being from the older generation who grew up with pianists such as Rachmaninoff, Casadesus, Horowitz and Rubenstein, and having studied with organ teachers who stressed that the performer should in no way detract from the music with his mannerisms, I found Brendel's hammy affectations most objectionable. No matter how well a person plays, if his mannerisms are such as to detract ones attention from the music, as his did, the performance is not good.

If you are familiar with Horowitz, you know that he plays completely relaxed and in such a way that one is hardly aware that he is at the piano. That in my estimation is true genius and artistry. Brendel has a very long way to go to equal even some of the local pianists that I have heard since being in Princeton.

Rednor & Rainear's got the guts to see you through.

Jeep guts.

Anywhere. Anyplace. In any weather. A REDNOR & RAINEAR Jeep vehicle ignores convention and gets the job done. No matter what. That's because there's a long Jeep tradition of gutty reliability. Jeep vehicles were the first and they're still the toughest 4-wheel-drive vehicles made 'Cause they're built to be 4-wheel-drive from the ground up. Look at the Jeep Wagoneer, for instance. The perfect family car to tow a camper to someplace where nobody ever camped before. And a Wagoneer will take you there in station wagon comfort.

We operate on guts. Jeep guts.

with members of our staff for the purpose of discussing financial matters. Primary emphasis will include commercial lending and the development and servicing of trust accounts."

New Jersey National Bank now has 23 offices located throughout central New Jersey and approval for six additional offices not yet open.

OFFICE PARK STARTED

At Princeton Junction. A new four building office project will rise on a site adjacent to the Penn-Central Railroad station in Princeton Junction along Washington Road.

At a ground-breaking ceremony held Monday, owner-developer Daniel R. Goldenson of Princeton marked the start of the project by taking the first shovelful of earth from the location of the first building. Looking on were Mrs. Goldenson; Mayor Melvin C. Firman of West Windsor Township; John F. Hoff, President of the First National Bank of Princeton; and the representatives of the contracting firm, Design & Construction Associates of Somerville.

Princeton Station Office Park will eventually contain four separate two-story office structures; two of 15,000 square feet, and two of 30,000 square feet. All of the buildings will be of brick, steel and concrete.

Upon completion in the fall, the first building will feature dark brown brick on all sides, interspersed with an ivory-colored stucco finish and bronze-tinted windows. A clear-span steel system will support the slightly-sloping roof. The main entrance has been designed with a broad expanse of glass opening into a two-story lobby.

Mr. Goldenson indicated that he hopes to appeal to corporate tenants who can occupy either a complete floor or building. Because of its proximity to the railroad station, he feels the park will provide commuting convenience for employees and visitors, and many attract New York or Philadelphia companies who are seeking a suburban location.

25 YEARS COMPLETED

By Dr. Westefeld at ORC. Dr. Albert Westefeld, 39 Rollingmeade, vice-president of Opinion Research Corporation, has completed 25 years service with the firm. He joined the research staff of ORC in 1946 as a project director.

In his present position as vice-president, Dr. Westefeld is responsible for all corporation studies dealing with federal, state, and local government matters as well as travel and transportation activities. Dr. Westefeld's research career spans more than 30 years of extensive activity in areas of public affairs, marketing and advertising, employee and public relations, politics, and work in several federal government agencies.

Dr. Westefeld received his B.A. degree, cum laude, in economics from Columbia. His graduate work was also done at Columbia, where he received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in economics.

CRAFT ADDS SERVICE

Coin-Op Dry Cleaning Offered. Craft Cleaners has added a coin-op dry-cleaning service at its Trenton plant, 1840 Brunswick Avenue, corner of Trumbull Avenue.

The new service is professionally attended with professional packaging and no waiting, according to John R. Janick of Craft. He announced that as an added bonus, Craft would do every 13th load free.

VICE-PRESIDENT NAMED

For Public Opinion Surveys. Dr. George Gallup has announced the promotion of John O. Davies III to vice-president and director of public relations for Public Opinion Surveys, Inc. Mr. Davies, 31, has been with the Gallup group of companies for 9 years. He was formerly editor of the American Institute of Public Opinion (The Gallup Poll).

His responsibilities with the new firm will include the editing and publishing of the Gallup Opinion Index, a monthly report of Gallup survey data sent to more than 1,000 colleges and universities across the nation. He will also direct market and attitude studies for commercial clients and will manage public relations for the firm. Mr. Davies is a Trenton City Councilman, having been elected last June.

MILLER VOTED HEAD Of Hopewell School Board. James C. Miller, the lone representative from Pennington Borough on the Hopewell Valley Board of Education, was elected its president Monday night by a 6-3 vote.

Mr. Miller, who was re-elected to his second term on the board last year, defeated Donald McCoy of Hopewell Borough, who was re-elected to the Board last week. Thomas Seessel of Hopewell Township and Fred Klett of Hopewell Borough were sworn in to their first three-year terms.

Mr. Seessel made several attempts during Monday night's reorganization meeting to amend board policies, with an eye to encourage greater public attendance at board meetings. He got through one change, passed unanimously, which left the maximum number of times the board's newsletter could be published to the board's discretion. Previously it had been published a minimum of four and maximum of six times a year.

John S. Cartwright of Hopewell Township was re-elected vice president and re-appointed representative to the Mercer County School Boards Association and chairman of the planning committee.

There IS a difference in Pools!
And that difference is quality
...whether Concrete or Aluminum. Here are a few examples:

☐ LABOR SAVING AUTOMATIC FEATURES
All automatic pools are not automatic. Ours is. ACPS —Sylvan's Automatic Cleaning and Purifying system would rather do it itself. Even while you're in the pool swimming. ACPS is available in both Sylvan's UNIPOUR® Concrete, and All-Aluminum pools.

☐ TOUGH, NO MAINTENANCE FINISH
Or, in a word . . . PERMALON. Unlike marbledust plaster, PERMALON is resistant to staining and algae and since no annual refurbishing is necessary it puts you dollars ahead, season after season. Ask us to demonstrate this finish to you . . . and you'll insist on miracle PERMALON for lowest maintenance cost.

☐ RUGGED "COLD-CLIMATE" SPECIFICATIONS
Both Sylvan pools are ruggedly "over"-engineered because northern winters are notoriously tough on pools. Our UNIPOUR® pool is made of the highest strength concrete (4000psi), and the huskiest steel rods (½"). Our walls, floors and frost beams are the industry's thickest. Our All-Aluminum pool is constructed of extra heavy-duty extrusions, and a .025 vinyl liner that out-muscles the average liner by 20%. And both pools are covered by our superior guarantee.

☐ ASSURED CUSTOMER SATISFACTION *(IN WRITING)
Twenty-five years of leadership in pool design and construction has made Sylvan the most recommended pool builder by architects and engineers. When you swim with Sylvan, you can be confident of years of worry-free pool ownership and lasting value. We guarantee it. In both our pools. In writing.

All Sylvan Pools meet or exceed the minimum standards of the National Swimming Pool Institute.

Quality makes the difference!

PHS LOSES OPENER

At Cathedral Monday. The Princeton High School baseball team has not lost its appetite for losing ball games in the late innings.

In a slow and sloppy opener Monday at Princeton Day School, a costly error on a potential double play grounder by shortstop George Boccanfuso opened the way for PDS to score three unearned runs in the last inning and nip the Little Tigers, 5-4. PHS had scored three off reliefer Pete McCandless in the same inning to take a short-lived lead.

As a result, Princeton High's winless streak of last year was extended one more game. The team will play game three at Cathedral Monday afternoon. It was scheduled to meet Ewing in its home opener here, Wednesday at 3:45.

PHS coach Harry Zoll had little to be encouraged about after the PDS game. His top pitcher, Don Crosby, lacked control and Crosby himself re

STARTING HURLER: Don Crosby started on the mound in Princeton High Schools opening baseball game Monday against rival Princeton Day School.

OCEAN TOWNSHIP EDGED

By PHS Girls in Track. The Princeton High School girls' track team which has found new impetus under Lamont Fletcher, who took over as coach last year, won its first meet of the season last week, edging Ocean Township here, 59-56.

Andrea Bowman, won the 100 yard dash with a clocking of 12.6 and placed second in the broad jump. Her sister, Lorie, won the 50-yard dash in 6.8, and captured the high jump with a 4'6" effort, although her coach said that she can go five feet.

Karen Herzog won the 220 low hurdles in 19.2. These three joined Brisbane Kessler to win the 880 relay event. Brisbane, a new member of the team, also placed second in the 220. Her time: 29.3. Sophomore Karen Winn placed second in the hurdles and 440.

Lindsey Blatter, team captain, won her specialty, the mile in 5:51 — just two seconds off her best time last year, when she placed first in the state meet at Monmouth College, Fletcher, a 1961 PHS graduate and one of its top murders, predicts Lindsey will get down to the low 5:40s before the season is over. She is a senior.

PDS WINS FIRST

At Peddie Tuesday. The Princeton Day baseball team's opening victory over Princeton High School was a comedy of errors, which will hopefully disappear along with the cold weather, but at least the 6-5 triumph does get the Panthers off on a winning note.

Dave Cleghorn did well enough for the few innings he worked considering the 45 degree temperature, and should improve as the season progresses. Peter McCandless will need plenty of more work if he is to back up Claghorn, but his hitting is already in mid season form.

The Panthers will meet Peddie School at 3:30 at home Tuesday in a contest which should provide a greater test of their abilities.

BUSH PLACES THIRD

In NCAA Diving. David Bush, 244 Dodds Lane, brother of 1964 Olympic Diving Champion Lesley Bush, placed third in the NCAA three-meter diving championships held last weekend at Ames, Iowa.

A sophomore at the University of Wisconsin, he was the only one to enter competition and finished sixth. He expects to compete in the 1972 Olympic trials.

PHS NETMEN WIN FIRST

Over Metuchen. Another season for the Princeton High School tennis team has begun but nothing else has changed — the Little Tigers keep winning.

Monday, in its first meet against Metuchen, PHS swept both doubles matches and two of the three singles contests to win, 4-1. Michele Glouche vitch won his match, 6-0, 6-2, and Bill Schmidt captured his, 6-3, 6-3, and Randy Thomas and Dick Broad won, 6-3, 6-4. Bill Humes is coach of the Little Tigers.

Princeton Area Churches List Services Marking Holy Week

Denominational and ecumenical services are scheduled for the final days of Holy Week. This Thursday is Maundy Thursday in the Christian calendar, marking the anniversary of Christ's last supper with the disciples. It is followed by solemn rites on Good Friday in remembrance of the crucifixion. The feast of the Resurrection is celebrated on Easter Day.

Ecumenical services will be held on Good Friday in Princeton, Hopewell and Pennington. The three-hour service in Princeton begins at noon and will be held in Trinity Church.

In Pennington, beginning at 7:30 p.m. and at ten-minute intervals until 8:30 p.m., small groups will begin a 40-minute worship experience keyed to the four moods of Good Friday. The service will be held on the Abram Voorhees farm, Route 31. The Hopewell Community Service of Tenebrae will be at 8 p.m. in Hopewell Presbyterian Church. Combined choirs will sing.

The schedule of services in the various churches follows:

First Presbyterian Church will have a service of holy communion at 8 p.m. on Maundy Thursday. The Rev. Donald M. Meisel, Ph.D., pastor, will preach on the topic "Amazing Grace." New members will be received. Easter morning services are scheduled for 9 and 11:15 a.m.

Dr. Meisel's sermon title is "Today." The combined choirs will sing Greeters at the early service are Mr. and Mrs. Graham Rohrer and Mr. and Mrs. Albridge C. Smith, III; at 11, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lafferts Loetscher and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Taylor.

Trinity Episcopal Church will conduct holy communion at 7:15 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 8 p.m. on Maundy Thursday. The all night Watch ends at 9 a.m. on Good Friday. There will be a communion service at 9, followed at noon by the Princeton Community Good Friday Service. On Saturday, at 4 p.m., the sacrament of holy baptism will be observed and the lighting of the Paschal Candle.

All three of Trinity's choirs will sing at the festival celebrations of the Eucharist on Easter Day. Men from the Choir of Men and Boys will sing traditional plainsong and early Easter carols at the 7 a.m. service. The music for the 9 a.m. service, sung by the Adult and Girls' Choirs, will include the Dutch Carol, "This Joyful Eastertide," and the communion service setting by Harold Darke. At 11, the 50-voice choir of Men and Boys will sing music by Weelkes, William Byrd and the Communion Service Festival Setting for organ and brass by Alec Wyton. A brass ensemble will join James Litton, organist, in works by Bach and Gabrieli as a prelude to the service. Canon James R. Whittemore, rector of Trinity Church, will be the preacher for the services.

The Lutheran Church of the Messiah will celebrate the Eucharist at 8 p.m. on Maundy Thursday, led by Pastor Luther Kriefall. On Good Friday there will be children's service of Tenebrae, at 11 a.m. and an adult service at 8 p.m. The evening service will not be the Tenebrae this year, but a service of gospel proclamation, meditations on the Holy week lessons, and a view of the Passion (by slides) through the eyes of great artists. Organist John Peck will play Lenten chorale settings.

The Feast of the Resurrection on Easter Day will be marked at an Eastern Dawn Service at 6:30 a.m. with holy communion, a children's service at 9 and the Festival service at 11.

All Saints' Chapel (Episcopal) will begin the Easter Vigil at 10 p.m. on Saturday, with Vicar Orley Swartzentruber as celebrant. A simplified version of an old service, the Vigil begins outside the church with the striking of a fire, which is brought into the darkened church and the Pascal Candle is lit. Hymns, Old Testament passages and sung psalms are part of the service, which also includes baptism of new members. At what would have been dawn in the early version, the bells and organ sound forth and all candles are lit as the Mass of Easter begins. The entire service lasts just under one and one half hours.

The Maundy Thursday Liturgy will be said at All Saints' Chapel at 8 p.m., followed by the Good Friday Liturgy at 9 a.m. On Easter Sunday the schedule is: 9 a.m. Family Eucharist; 10 a.m. Church School classes and adult forums; 11 a.m. Festival Eucharist and sermon.

Roman Catholic Holy Week services, held by the Aquinas Institute in Princeton University, Chapel include mass at 9 a.m. on Thursday; Good Friday services at 3 p.m. and mass at 10 p.m. on Saturday, which will fulfill Easter Sunday obligation. Easter Sunday masses at Aquinas Chapel will be at 9, 10:15 and noon. There will be no 4:45 p.m. mass in the University chapel on Easter Sunday.

Princeton University Chapel will have services of holy communion at 8 p.m. on Maundy Thursday and at 8 a.m. on Easter Sunday. Dean Ernest Gordon will preach at the 11 a.m. service on Easter.

Easter services will be at 11 a.m. and 8:15 p.m. at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 16 Bayard Lane. Mrs. Nancy Sensenbach will sing Curran's "Resurrection," accompanied by Stephen Waters at the organ. The gospe of Mark is part of the Bible Lesson Sermon, "Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?"

First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck will have a communion service at 8 p.m. on Maundy Thursday. The Easter schedule includes the sunrise service at 5:28 a.m. at Dutch Neck Schoolgrounds; Church School at 9:30 and worship services at 9:30 and11 a.m. The Rev. Dr. James S. Weaver will preach. His sermon title is "But, God . . ."

Morning Star Church of God in Christ, 43½ Birch Avenue, will hold an Easter Day service at 6 on Sunday, conducted by Elder C. Guidry, pastor. The festival service will be held at noon.

News Of The CHURCHES

COMMUNITY SERVICE SET

For Good Friday. An ecumenical service in observance of Good Friday will be held at Trinity Episcopal Church, 12 noon until 3 p.m., the Rev. E. Rugby Auer, vicar of Trinity and president of the Princeton Pastors' Association, has announced.

The Rt. Reverend John J. Endebrock, pastor of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, will preach during the first hour. Monsignor Endebrock came to Princeton last summer and has become very much involved in community activities. He is a member of the Princeton Pastors' Association and chairman of Ecumenical Concerns for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Trenton.

The Rev. Edward Smith of First Baptist Church will preach in the second hour. He has been pastor of First Baptist for several years and is presently vice president of the Pastors' Association. He was instrumental in remodeling the Baptist Church and creating a memorial chapel to the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King.

The guest preacher during the third hour will be the Rev. Donald M. Meisel, Ph.D., pastor of First Presbyterian Church and Moderator of the Synod of New Jersey. Dr. Meisel has served as First Presbyterian's pastor since 1960. He is a former president of the Pastors' Association and was instrumental in inaugurating the hospital chaplaincy program at Princeton Hospital and in the beginnings of the Princeton Interfaith Council.

Each of the one hour periods is a distinct service in itself, the Rev. Mr. Auer said this week. Each is arranged so that worshippers may come for a very brief period or remain for the entire time.

The service for the first hour will be responsive readings based upon the traditional "Way of the Cross." The second service will follow a simple form of scripture readings and prayers, and the final hour will involve the congregation in a dialogue reading of the Passion narrative along with a Litany of Penitence.

The theme of the sermons will follow the familiar words of the Apostles' Creed. Monsignor Endebrock will preach on the phrase "Suffered Under Pontius Pilate"; the Rev. Mr. Smith, on the credal phrase, "Crucified, Dead and Buried"; and Dr. Meisel, on "The Third Day He Rose Again."

Music will include familiar hymns of the Passion along with special music by the choirs of Trinity Church.

PASSOVER BEGINS

This Friday. The week-long festival of Passover or Pesach, recalling the redemption of the Israelites from bondage in Egypt, begins at sundown this Friday. Rabbi Hershel J. Matt will conduct the opening service at 6:15 p.m. at the Princeton Jewish Center. The candle lighting is at 6:09 p.m.

There will be special services at the Jewish Center throughout the holiday. The first born are expected to fast during the day prior to the first Seder, this Friday. Unleavened bread, matzot ("bread of affliction") is eaten as a reminder than even today not all human beings are free.

Services at the Center include worship from 10 until noon on Saturday morning and from 6 to 7:15 p.m. On Sunday there will be Passover morning service from 10 until noon. Next Thursday, April 15, the evening service begins at 6:15 p.m., followed by services on Friday, April 16, at 10 a.m. and 8:15 p.m.

ORTHODOX TO OBSERVE

Palm Sunday. The Palm Sunday service of the Eastern Orthodox Church will be held at 10:30 a.m. this Sunday in the east room of Murray Dodge Hall. The Rev. John Turkevich will officiate.

On Saturday, April 17, there will be the midnight Easter Service and High Mass in the Marquand Transcept of Princeton University Chapel, beginning at 11:30 p.m. The Rev. Georges Florovsky and Fr. Turkevich will lead the worship.

The Community Lenten Service at 12:10 p.m. this Thursday in First Presbyterian Church will be led by the Rev. E. Rugby Auer of Trinity Episcopal Church. Luncheon follows from 12:30 to 1 p.m. Child care is available. The Thursday noon services have been sponsored throughout Lent by the Princeton Pastors' Association.

ROSES and RHUBARB

By DON ALLEN

PHASE II, COMIN' UP . . .

Business, overall, has been bad. You hear it everywhere. Strikes, unemployment, high taxes, tight money. Yet, in spite of an overall poor business climate we've nearly doubled our business this past year — and ours is a luxury product. That we did so is not strange when you understand what we are trying to do here at our little flower shop.

We call it "more flowers, to more people, more often." It could be called 'merchandising'. In any event — it's not new. They've been doing it for years in Europe — where the per capita consumption of flowers is fantastic. It works on this sensible theory. Price flowers at a realistic level — and then since everyone loves the product — more people will buy it. This works. If you've ever been here on a weekend you've seen it work. Our dollar flower specials are an institution. They continue to amaze and inspire the homemaker — coming at a period when the buying dollar purchases less and less.

Now promotional pricing of flowers is not our exclusive idea — Oh, no. Others are doing it too — some quite well. "A fellow by the name of Bachman — out in Minneapolis — sold over six million dollars worth just last year, this way. The formula is simple enough. Line up the fine quality flowers you can find, make the best deal you can, add a nominal markup, — depend on volume to keep you in business.

Now this doesn't mean poor quality flowers sold cheap — for it's no trick to be a junk merchant. It does mean fine flowers — priced reasonably. Herein is the genius of the concept — to do otherwise is to kill the goose that laid the golden egg. If it's no good — it's no bargain at any price.

We are now emboldened to launch PHASE II, which we will call Promotional Pot Plant Pricing. First we will feature a whole gaggle of flowering plants as Cash and Carry Specials for Easter. All below $4.00. Furthermore, all other plants (corsages and cut flowers — even arrangements) will bear two price tags (1) a full service price (includes free delivery and charge priviledges) and (2) Less 10% for cash and carry.

Now by picking out your flowers — and paying for them too — (as so many of you do anyway) you can get famous "Allen" Quality at substantial savings.

Our merchandising has been well received by our enthusiastic clientel — for this we are indeed grateful. Frankly we feel the field has only been scratched — it's certainly no time to rest on our oars — not when there's a guy out in Minneapolis who sold six million. . . .

BUCKS COUNTY

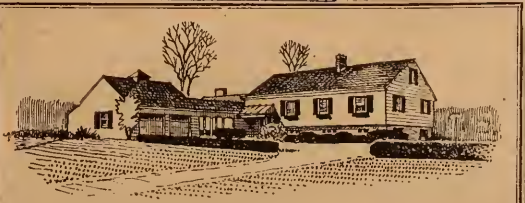
Morrisville-Yardley area, 25 minutes to Princeton. Four bedroom home, 2½ baths, air conditioned, split level construction, on a beautifully landscaped 135x125 lot. Many built-ins and fine extras. Principals only. Call 215-CY3-5156 evenings between 7 & 10.



WIDE OPEN SPACES AND SNUG COZINESS don't usually go hand in hand, but somehow this property manages to put it all together. In fact, it seems to specialize in creating illusions. The sweeping, almost two acres appears more than that; the brick and shingle split looks like a rambling ranch house; and the wide open setting actually provides a great deal of privacy, especially in the spacious, well-landscaped fenced pool and terrace area. The interior is enhanced by such touches as a wide, raised-hearth, paneled fireplace, set back between bookshelves; dining room bow window and built-in corner cupboards; handsome flagstone entrance hall.

VITAL STATISTICS: large dropped living room, dining room, well-planned kitchen/breakfast/laundry, big paneled family room with walk-in equipped bar, 4 or 5 good bedrooms (depending on use of a paneled library), 2½ baths, closets galore, screened porch, 2 car garage, fenced breezeway for canine would-be wanderers, pleasant Lawrenceville location. $75,000

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE: we sold this house, or rather it sold itself, to its present owners, who are now retiring out of state and who were then dyed-in-the-wool, not-to-be-uprooted Princetonians!

Trinity Counseling Service Offers "Team Approach" to Guidance

More than 1,000 hours of counseling were provided last year by the clergy, psychologists, psychiatrists and social workers on the staff of the Trinity Counseling Service.

"We'll go beyond that this year," states the Rev. E. Rugby Auer executive director. "We'll have to add more counselors."

The Trinity Counseling Service was started in 1968 by the Rev. Mr. Auer in conjunction with others. It offers a team approach to guidance for people in this area who are troubled by their personal life, their relationships to others, their marriage or their family. Clients are accepted regardless of race or creed.

"There are some 300 counseling centers in the country, but in most of them the pastors do the counseling and the mental health people act as advisors. The Trinity Counseling Service is different in that we have all of these highly qualified professionals working on the front line," the Rev. Mr. Auer comments.

Currently, the service has a case-load of 35 hours a week maintained by nine counselors whose professions allow them fairly felxible schedules. Four rooms at Trinity Church are turned over to them.

Family Units. There are times when an entire family — mother, father and the kids — sit together and talk with the Rev. A. J. van den Blink, who becomes advisor to the group. "Dealing with the entire family is a development of the last ten years," he says. "Usually the family sessions start because one of the children presents a problem in some way. Sometimes we have several side sessions with the parents.

Rev. E. Rugby Auer

Most of those who seek help are in their late twenties and early or mid thirties. The most frequent reason is a shaky marriage, or a family problem. When it becomes evident that a child in the family needs help, the Trinity Counseling Service refers the parents to the Child Guidance Center. Referral is a part of the work drawing upon Princeton's extensive number of agencies.

Team Work. "But the exciting thing to all of us here is the thrust of the interdisciplinary approach," the Rev. Mr. Auer says. "It is unique here, and there are very few like it in the country.

"The medical profession is getting interested in this. I've been invited to work with third year students at the University of Maryland Medical School where we would discuss all the areas where there is an overlap of concerns, such as terminal illness, transplants, abortion."

On March 18, the Trinity Counseling Service will begin its first "pastoral consultation seminar," working with ten clergymen who are interested in improving their counselling skills and making more effective use of themselves in the role of pastor. It will be held every Thursday for two hours through May 27.

Chaplain C. George Fitzgerald of Princeton Hospital is involved in the program evaluation and in counselling. "The team approach is a new horizon in mental health work. I've noticed in terms of my work as a chaplain that in almost every illness the family is involved . . . the illness disrupts family balance in one way or another, from loss of income to finding a baby sitter."

The Rev. Herbert Anderson, Ph.D. who began working with the Trinity Counseling Center in 1969 after joining the Seminary faculty as professor of pastoral theology, adds that the Trinity Service "is in the vanguard of the movement that's growing throughout the country. More and more clergy seek expertise in doing what is known as pastoral counseling. We're not psychoanalysts, but we are required to use some of the tools."

The Personnel. The counseling staff includes Dr. Frank Haronian, Dr. Maurice Phillips, both clinical psychologists, and the Rev. James N. Lapsley, Ph.D., of Princeton Seminary, all of whom have been assisting since the beginning.

Also, Chaplain Fitzgerald, Dr. Nancy Manning, a clinical psychologist; Dr. Michael Tocarico, Kingston based psychiatrist, the Rev. Erma Trout, a doctoral candidate at the seminary, the Rev. Mr. Anderson and Miss Fairlie Nicodemus, a psychiatric social worker who helped establish the Child Guidance Center of Mercer County. The team meets together faithfully once a week. And there is the invaluable Mrs. Haronian, who has taken on the duties of secretary.

The sliding scale of fees, ranges from zero to approximately $25, depending on the client's resources. Budget needs this year are $45,000. Funds have come from Trinity Church and from private donors. There is a drive on now to meet the 1971 costs.

Princeton surgeon James J. Chandler heads the board of directors of Trinity Counseling Service. Also serving are Dr. Willard Dalrymple, the Rev. H. Dana Fearon III, James S. PINTER: Teddy the philosophy professor comes home to the family in Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming" now in repertory at McCarter. Richard Jamieson (left) plays Teddy. The others are his wife Ruth, (Joan Weisberg), his brother, Lennie (Donald Gantry) and Joey (W. G. McMillan), and his father Max (Lee Wallace.) (Jim McDonald Photo)

Under Pinter's Lowering Grey, Repertory Ends

There's an irony in the title, because with Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming," McCarter disperses its repertory company to the far corners of whatever worlds actors can find these days, turns out the lights, knocks down the scenery and prepares for a one year sabbatical from repertory theatre.

"The Homecoming" will, of course, play in this spring's remaining weeks of repertory, with performances this Thursday at 7:30; Saturday, April 17, and Friday, April 23, at 8:30. But it's the last play of the season in the last season of repertory for some time.

It's a grey kind of ending. Devid Jenkins has designed, imaginatively, a single set in looming greys, the walls textured like a cave, and Charles Blackburn has created costumes in the greydun palette, with a single stab of bright blue for the one woman in the cast.

Pinter's characters, you will recall, live in an old grey house in North London. A dirty old man of a father, two sons, a mousy uncle. The third son, a successful professor of philosophy, brings his wife, Ruth, to meet the folks. A homecoming.

The wife, so to speak, moves in, so to speak. "If you take the glass (of water), I'll take you," she says with even coolness to the brother-in-law she met for the first time ten minutes ago.

Calculating Coolness. By the final scene, she has made love to both brothers-in-law in front of her husband, who seems oddly not to care very much, and she has become the family sex-object.

But the presage of her calculating coolness is, that if anything is going to be exploited, it will most surely be the men in the family and by no means Ruth.

Critics have done a lot of worming around in the Oedipal significance of this play. Ruth is the mother of three little boys, offstage in America, and she moves in to become resident whore in a household of three men — her father-in-law and two brothers-in-law whose own mother is dead. Four men, if her husband should decide to show up now and again. Don't become a stranger," she says, with a nice hospitality.

So much of Pinter is inside, unheard, buried beneath the surface in some wet cave. A lot this particular plays is visible onstage, but the underlying motives are still squirming under a damp rock, out of sight.

So play Oedipus, if you see it that way.

Production Is Slack. We prefer to look at "The Homecoming" as theatre, and from this point of view, it seems to us that Pinter is not well-served by the McCarter production. It is slack. The play's portentous silences — or even the non-portentous ones, assuming you differentiate — are merely spaces in which nobody happens to be speaking, and not the heavy, ominous intervals so characteristic that people now speak of them as "Pinteresque."

The production does not

News Of The Theatres

have, for example, the tension and the quality of "theatre" that characterized a successful McCarter presentation of Pinter's "The Birthday Party" not long ago.

Perhaps — well, it's not a reviewer's job to review the audience, but it must be said that on opening night, the gathering at McCarter didn't help much.

"The Homecoming" is indeed grotesquely and scabrously comic, (its final scene, in which the brothers set Ruth up in her comfy little flat might come straight from some sinister vaudeville routine) but it is not a constant tittering delight, as this audience seemed to think. Without some audience comprehension and co-operation, Pinter is cheated of his peculiar and unique kind of theatre. How to sustain a mood, for example, when the audience insists on cheerfully applauding whenever it thinks a speech has received a virtuoso reading?

A Dirty Old Man. Louis Criss has directed a cast whose star is Lee Wallace as the dirty old father, retired butcher and progenitor of a pimp, a would-be boxer and a doctor of philosophy (if you still want to play Pinter games.) Mr. Wallace spews and rants and shuffles about and provides most of the genuine theatrical interest.

The enigmatic Ruth is Joan Weisberg, sleek as a cat. In this particular role, about all an actress can do is show seductive legs, which Miss Weisberg has, and talk in a cool conversational tone, which she does.

Brendan Burke as the uncle, doesn't have much chance to show his skill. The roles of the brothers are played satisfactorily enough, by Donald Gantry and W. G. McMillan. Richard Jamieson is the Ph.D.

A program note quotes Martin Esslin: "however much audiences may reject 'The Homecoming' on the rational level, they ultimately respond to it in the depth of their subconscious." Perhaps the only advice is to suggest that you find out for yourself.

"RUSSIANS ARE COMING"

Benefit at Garden. The film comedy, "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming," will play the Garden Theatre this Friday afternoon, with performances scheduled for 1 and 3 p.m.

Jonathan Winters and Carl Reiner star in this situation comedy about a New England town panicked by a Russian submarine off shore. Alan Arkin makes a climactic appearance as the sub commander, shouting in the harbour.

Admission is 60c, with advance tickets available at Male's Book Shop, Zinder's, Center Stationers and the Y.M.C.A. Sponsors are Big Brothers of Greater Princeton.

Q. 'Beyond the Fringe?' Where? A. At Theatre Intime. Now!

Q: Welcome, Mr Carr. How are you feeling this morning?

A: O.K., actually. It's my birthday, you know.

Q: No, I didn't. Many happy returns.

A: Thanks.

Q: Don't mention it.

A: I won't. You were about to interview me for TOWN TOPICS?

Q: Yes. What did you do last night?

A: I beg your pardon? Oh, you mean how did I like "Beyond the Fringe," the current Theatre Intime delectation "delight, enjoyment," showing next weekend (April 8, 9, and 10) at Murray Theatre (609) 452 8181 for ticket information?

Q: Yes.

A: Oh, a good show, a good show! You want me to say more, I presume. Take for granted, assume, or suppose?"

Q: Please.

A: Why don't you guess at some adjectives. That'll make more fun.

Q: Uh, "British?"

A: Certainement! British indeed. A very good guess, "of or pertaining to Great Britain, the British Commonwealth, or its inhabitants."

Q: Uh, "zany?"

A: Oh, right on! Surely it was "ludicrously or whimsically comical; clownishly crazy."

Q: You seem to be speaking rather oddly.

A: "Odd?" Did you say odd? Well, it depends "Odd," eh? How do you mean "odd?" Do you mean "1. differing in nature from what is ordinary, usual, or expected: an odd choice. 2. singular or peculiar in a fetishistic or eccentric way: an odd person. odd manners. 3. fantastic, bizarre. Her taste in clothing was rather odd." Hmmm?

Q: None of the above.

A: Say what you mean, damn you. In fact it was different as, say, peculiar (et one could also say eccentric, you know, off-center, as say, bizarre, you know, whimsically strange, but on-center, if you will).

Q: Go right ahead. You usually say that something is "brilliant and rare." If you like it. Is this "brilliant and rare?"

A: I say "brilliant and rare" that often, eh? Well, no, it's not quite "brilliant and rare," not, you understand, that some parts aren't "brilliant and rare," but "brilliant and rare" is a bit much for everything, now, isn't it?

Q: Well, you saw the show. I didn't.

A: Good show, yes, a good show. You ought to see it, you know; do wonders for your wan, "of an unnatural, sickly pallor, showing or suggesting ill health, fatigue, unhappiness etc." face. Better than any old "brilliant and rare" show any day. No, not "brilliant and rare"; rather: "steady and well done." (Loud guffaws)

Q: Uh, very clever, sir.

A: (Continued guffaws) Any more adjectives, buh "usually condescending; brother; boy; buddy."

Q: Would you say it was full of "boffs?"

A: Well, one sees so few "boffs, boffos, or boffolas" in Princeton. I'd say that the "boffs, boffos, or boffolas" do occur at a rather zingy pace.

Q: Zingy?

A: From "zing, 1. enthusiasm; vitality; animation; a pretty coed with lots of zing. 2. a quality or characteristic that excites the interest, enthusiasm, etc.: a tourist town with lots of zing."

Q: Oh.

A: What?

Q: I said "Oh."

A: Oh. Did you mean surprise, pain, or disapprovation?

Q: I'm not sure.

A: You're confused, lad. You should go to see "Beyond the Fringe," with John Amberg, Carmen Apelgren, Stephen Hunter, Philip Kinsman, Peter Orton, and James Shankman, directed by William Bowman, setting and lighting designed by William Bowman. Go, boy. You've been in Princeton too long. You take yourself too seriously, "soberly, somberly, staidly."

Q: How did you mean that, sir?

David Carr

PDS PLANS MUSICAL

To Give "Wonderful Town."

Princeton Day School will present "Wonderful Town" Friday and Saturday, April 16 and 17 at 8:30 p.m., and Sunday, April 18, at 3. This award winning musical, based on the play "My Sister Eileen," opened in 1953 to raves for both the show and its star, Rosalind Russell. It has lively music by Leonard Bernstein and amusing, tongue twisting lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green.

The part of Ruth Sherwood will be played by Kristen Garver, who has appeared in leading roles in the last two PDS musicals, while Kenzie Carpenter, a newcomer to the PDS stage, will play her sister Eileen. Carl Sturken is Bob Baker, the editor who falls in love with Ruth.

Tickets at $2 are available from PDS students or at the door. Seats are unreserved for all performances.

IT'S NEW To Us

BACK-PACKERS' FOODS At Varsity Sport. There are two ways to go camping: family style, which means you take along coolers, two-burner stoves, lamps, and a fair amount of extra gear, or hiker-style, with everything you need squashed into a back pack.

Varsity Sport Shop, in its new quarters at 138 Nassau where Farr Hardware used to be, has a sizeable amount of supplies for both types of camping, with many new offerings. The most intriguing are the freeze-dried foods, little packets that weigh next to nothing, take up minimal space, and yet add much needed variety to the back-packer's menu.

Varsity explored the foods carried by the major camping dealers in the east and settled for the "Rich-Moor" products from California, recommended by various dealers.

Try freeze-dried pork chops on you next overnight. The package weighs 1½-ounces. You add salted warm water to re-hydrate the chops and after 20 minutes, drain off the water and fry about one minute on each side.

Other Rich-Moor packages include freez-dried eggs (weight 2 oz.), corned beef, macaroni-and-cheese, spaghetti dinner with freeze-dried meatballs; vegetable beef stew, pancake mix, maple syrup mix, and many, many more.

On The Trail. There's an interesting selection of munching food for the trail. The most intriguing is called "gorp," an energy-producing mixture of milk chocolate, sugar, raisins, peanuts and other things. Another is banana chips, and still another is called Waikiki chips—a pineapple-based crunchy stuff.

You May As Well . . .

"Dear Shoplifter" says the note in the Cummins Shop window on Nassau Street. "Here's your eighth cordial glass. You've taken seven, so please take this one to complete your set."

For hikers, Varsity has the Gerry equipment, including the nylon sleeping bags and packs, weighing next to nothing. The pack with the zippered compartments seemed eminently sensible to us:: you can drag out a sweater from compartment No. 2 without having to unload the whole pack. Of course, you have to remember what you've put where.

There are light frames for packs, colapsible lanterns, camping cooking utensils, small stoves, and much more, all designed with an eye on the weight problem.

Family-style. The Coleman company has gone all out to supply family campers—coming a long way from its original two-burner stove. It offers a new line of coolers in three or four sizes, now on display at Varsity. These have leak-proof, rust-proof liners; some are equipped with a deep dry-storage tray and separate ice tub. The lid closes with a cam-action latch.

Coleman has new water jugs, cooking stoves, cooking kits, an easy-to-carry propane bottle and valve to hook up to the stove and also has the light-weight little "sportster" stove that fits into a cooking pan. The lid can be used as a frying pan.

Varsity is also showing the Coleman sleeping bags with washable cover and liner. Made of cotton duck with a polyester fiber filling.

Here also are the foam mattresses that take the curse off the hard ground, nylon wind breakers and so much more for outdoor life.

The shop has the very attractive bathing suits with matching cover-ups — all in great Tahitian prints. Made by White Stag in clingy nylon tricot, the accessories include a long sleeved tailored shirt, pants, a wrap-around skirt and bra tops. The suits themselves are sleek tank suits, and bikini styles.

Varsity Sport's new store is triple the size of the old one. You'll see golf clubs, a whole wall of tennis rackets, a special section for sports footwear—and the boys are all clamoring for the Adidas style soccer shoes to wear around every day. And, impressive in itself, is the baseball glove array — five long shelves filled with every kind imaginable.

need to pack in a child's stroller. Allen's has the "umbrella" stroller, a 3½ lb. mixture of canvas and aluminum that collapses into three vertical lines and hangs on the crook of your arm.

Made in England and priced at $28, the umbrella stroller comes with a choice of color for the canvas: yellow, blue, orange or green. Click the latch at the center shaft and the gadget opens into a very attractive, sturdy stroller.

In the girls' clothing line, Allen's has very pretty and infinitely useful little four piece costumes in double knit, teaming a sleeveless, button-down the front tunic in pastel stripes with a long sleeved short dress in white, striped pants and a matching tam, ready to be mixed and matched in a number of ways.

Allen's pursues two schools of design in the girls' clothes: one is very dainty and extremely feminine; the other is hard wearing, supple knits. Everything is the wash 'n wear.

Among the flower like dresses for spring we saw such offerings as a long sleeved dress with the print running in vertical lines and a wide, flowing tie below the tiny ruffle at the neck. Another, a sheered voile with a full skirt, accented with a mention of lace above the Mao collar and at the edge of the gathered cuff. ($12) There are beautiful little dresses in the softest pastel shades and deep hems.

In the double knits, we liked a pure white dress with red and navy blue trim, and in the pant suits, the soft, heathered blue tops with an insert of blue and white stripes.

Allen's has the reliable Donmoor knit shirts worn by both boys and girls. Matched them with the striped shorts with fringed hems. The shorts came in rich earth colors. The knit tops are either solid colors or multi-width stripes. The colors are great this year.

For the beach and camping, terry robes for either boys or girls—all in brilliant stripes—and bathing suits with coverups. The sizes run from infant to 16 in the bathing suit department. We were most charmed by a girl's blue and white checked cover up with a matching bikini. The top is tailored like a shirt.

There is a good supply of tennis dresses and tennis culottes at Allen's. Even pique with lace at the hem.

For toddlers, wonderful seersucker overalls in vertical stripes ($4 and $4.50). Short, of course, for warm weather. The Nannekin overalls match yellow and white strips ($5); Carter's offers coordinates in cotton knits.

Allen's is showing both lined and unlined jackets for this time of year and on into summer by the sea. Many have hoods. The most amusing is in navy denim, styled and stitched like a railroad engineer's jacket.

For Easter and spring parties, you will find spring coat and dress ensembles in double knits. The coats are delightfully young and simple. Each has a skimmer-type dress in white or a coordinate color.

Mothers to-be will find completely washable knits, sleeveless skimmers, pants, and playsuits in the maternity department. We liked the slacks with the boxer waistband, easy to wear after the big event. The playsuits come in gay prints and good stripes. There are often matching shorts.

KNIT YOUR HOT PANTS

And a Matching Top. The Knitting Shop on Tulane Street has a project for the ladies with lovely legs: knitted hot pants, supplied in make-your-own knits with enough wool for a matching top.

The kits, by Bernat, are also available in a crochet version. Prices run from $7.95 to $12.95. To wear with hot pants, if you want, goucho accessories, such as suspenders, a shoulder bag or a belt, crocheted in bright red and gold and lavender-blue.

The Knitting Shop is showing original designs for needlepoint, interesting changes from the usual offerings. Called Christopher originals, the designs employ the waffle switch to give a very real dimension to the shell of a tortoise or the thorny sides of a pineapple.

For the ambitious, true copies of oriental rug patterns are just in, to be worked in the thick acrylic yarn made in France. The colors are very clear and pure, and the patterns are fun. All of the sizes are typically off-beat orinetal measurements. The first customer to buy one was a man, who chose a 6½ x 9½ rug to work on. That ought to keep him out of trouble for a while.

There are some good designs in needlepoint canvas, in pattern weaves for everything from chair seats to belts and pincushions. Work the leftover pieces into coasters. Patterns include fleur de lis, checkerboard and brocade. Buy it by the yard.

Also in needlepoint are original designs for checkbook covers, bookmarkeds and eyeglass cases. The hand-drawn patterns are very different.

in McCosh 10 on the University Campus.

The public is invited to attend, and the program will be free. The University Chapel is sponsoring Mr. Gesner's appearance.

The evening will be a series of readings and scenes, with a cast of five offering what Mr. Gesner describes as "a commentary of the current social scene, presenting a view that is highly original."

Mr. Gesner is probably best known as the book-lyrics-music man for "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." Last year, he published "Stuff, etc." under the name of John Gordon. In addition he has written and directed 20 to 30 short films for the television series "Sesame Street."

As an undergraduate at Princeton, he was an officer and writer for Triangle Club, and a writer and producer for Theatre Intime.

"CRACKED ICE"

Triangle's Coming. They say that "Cracked Ice," this year's Triangle Club musical, uses the story approach to highlight its usual sketches, song-and-dance, mixed media and whatever else.

"Cracked Ice" will open at McCarter on Thursday, April 29, at 8:30.

In one scene, two undergraduates go about the campus acting out their experiences as Campus Loafer and Mr. Active. In a dorm room, co-eds try to figure out what was wrong with their parents' college life and arrive, in the process, at some very funny conclusions. All in song-and-dance and the traditional kick-line, if you can believe it, comes in right here.

Milton Lyon, the old pro, is directing a cast of 40, including 16 co-eds. An orchestra has arranged over 15 original songs in several styles, ranging from classical — whatever THAT may mean — to folk-rock and the gentler tunes of today.

Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box-office.

"HOSPITAL"

Director, in Person. "Hospital," a social documentary filmed by the director who did the controversial "Titicut Follies" of some years back, will be shown at McCarter in the New Cinema Series next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The director himself, Frederick Wiseman, will be present in person to answer questions from the audience after the screening.

"Hospital," made for the educational TV series, "PBL Laboratory," describes a metropolitan New York hospital struggling to meet the needs of the ghetto community around it.

Conditions in the hospital are less than satisfactory (this is not a film for a squeamish audience), but the film is not sensational.

Cameras watch as the hospital receives into his care the shot and the drunk, the worn out and the abandoned, the slashed and the bruised — and the just plain unlucky.

Previous films of Mr. Wiseman's, were "Titicut Follies," the study of a state mental institution in Massachusetts; "High School," which described the quality of education in a suburban middle class school and "Law and Order," a view of the Kansas City Police Department.

TWO, BY CHILDRESS

At Youth Center. Two one act plays by Alice Childress will be performed at the Princeton Youth Center on two weekends in May — the 7th and 8th, and the 14th and 15th.

"Mojo," the first play, has only two in its cast. They will be William Cook and Cecelia B. Hodges.

"Wine in the Wilderness" will have Terry Steaple, Lynette Campbell, Bernadette Yeager, Carolyn Adams and Connie Mack McKitchen as its players.

Sets for both plays are being designed and executed by Bubba Vinnson.

"Wine in the Wilderness" was first presented on WGBH in Boston with Abby Lincoln in the lead, as the first in a series called "On Being Black." It was produced under a Ford Foundation Grant and was later presented at Harlem.

"Mojo" is a new work, premiered last year on a double bill with "Wine." Miss Childress was a lecturer last season in the Princeton Youth Center's Hansberry Arts Workshop series. A playwright for over a decade, she has won an Obie Award and has had plays presented by the Negro Ensemble Company at the Greenwich Mews Theatre and at Michigan State University.

"NOW"

Improvisation. An evening of improvisational theatre with the title of "Now" will be presented this Thursday at 8 p.m. in Brecht West, 61 Albany Street, New Brunswick.

Before the evening begins, there will be music by guitarists and singers from the New Brunswick area, and free coffee and refreshments will be served.

Janet Coleman and David Dover of New York's Loft Theatre, will use games and improvisational technique to lead the audience itself through what Brecht West calls "a unique theatrical experience."

Reservations may be made at 201 828 2750.

PLAYHOUSE

Valdez Is Coming (now playing). Here we have Burt Lancaster, a blue-eyed Mexican American, riding shotgun on a stage coach when he comes across an angry mob outside a Negro's shack, with cattle baron Jon Cypher urging them on.

Through a quirk of fate, he helps kill the Negro. Conscience-stricken, he starts on a campaign to harass Cypher into contributing to the support of the dead man's pregnant Apache wife.

Well, there's a kidnapping and a strenuous chase in the desert, with lots of hit and run action.

GARDEN

The Music Lovers (now playing). Richard Chamberlain, Glenda Jackson and Christopher Gable in a high pitched version of the life of Tchaikovsky. The accent is on violence, romanticism and perversity. An English film, with an "R" rating.

PRINCE

A New Leaf (now playing) is a brisk and breezy comedy full of clear wit and belly laughs.

Elaine May is the writer, director and co-star, teamed with Walter Matthau. The story concerns an off-beat couple. He is a triffler who has spent a fortune, and spurred on by his valet, pursues a bemused, bespectacled woman who is dedicated to botany and who is also a millionairess.

Appalled by her person (she has to be vacuumed every time she eats!") and attracted by her millions, Matthau decides to marry — and murder her. The courtship, wedding and honeymoon are very funny, with Mr. Matthau his furious best and Miss May an incredible delight.

CONTRASTING EXHIBITS

At Gallery 100. Gallery 100 is presenting two graphic artists this week and next, providing interesting contrasts in technique, color and design.

Indian artist, Shreedevi Munshi, is showing color etchings in the front gallery. Her work is notable for its delicacy and jewel-like colors.

In juxtaposition to these presentations of an Oriental mood are the contemporary prints being shown in the rear gallery by Ann Gross, a Princeton area artist. Here the mood of the future is clearly felt. Thoughtful comments on the current scene are everywhere in the exhibit. Her impressions of education and commuting have special appeal.

YMCA COMPLETES PLANS

For Junior Leader Program. The Princeton YMCA Ranger Camp Committee has completed plans for its summer Junior Leadership program for boys 15 and 16 years.

The first phase will provide boys a week of leadership training from June 21 through June 25, incorporating principals of group dynamics, camping skills and leadership principle. The second phase will associate junior leaders with an adult leader in the leadership of the younger Ranger Groups during the groups two week day camp program and on extended trips with younger boys to Nova Scotia and Maine.

The final phase of the programs is the 13 day camping trip to include 4 days at the Cape Hatteras Sea Shore, 3 days in the upper everglades of Lake Okeechobee and 3 days aboard a 65 foot fishing boat off the Florida Keys, snorkeling and fishing. The junior leader program will enroll 16 boys with boys of the oldest Ranger Club given first opportunity of registration.

The Committee also announced that a 24 passenger bus had been purchased and would be used for this summers major trips to allow the entire tripping units of 12 to 18 boys plus leader travel together. In addition the committee will purchase a canoe trailer and anticipates two new canoes to be given the Ranger program.

The Ranger Camp combines day time woodsman camp activity with camping and canoeing trips to the Wharton Tract, Nova Scotia, Maine and Colorado. Boys 10 through 15 are eligible and must qualify at camp for the trips.

CHILDREN EVENTS SET

For National Library Week. In celebration of national Library Week, April 18-25, Princeton's Public Library has planned several events of interest to children. Free tickets, required for admittance to any of the following programs, may be obtained in the children's room.

On Monday, April 19, at 7:30 p.m., the film comedy, "The Absent - Minded Professor," starring Fred MacMurray, Nancy Olson and Keenan Wynn, will be shown. It concerns a science teacher who accidentally invents "flubber," an antigravity substance.

Larry Kettlekamp, author of "The Sixth Sense," will present his views on extra-sensory perception and answer questions from the audience in a program entitled, "E.S.P. and Other Haunting Phenomena," at 3:30, Tuesday, April 20. Children grades four and up are invited.

Selected quality foreign and domestic film shorts will be featured at 3 p.m., Wednesday, April 21. The 90-minute program is suggested for elementary through secondary school aged viewers. Friday, April 23, at 3:30 children in grades three and up are invited to come and sing along with folk singer Caroline Mosely.

On Saturday, April 24 at 10 and 11 a.m. a creative dramatics program will be offered for preschoolers aged 3½ to 5. Dramatist Marjorie Schkolnick will encourage total participation and involvement, giving each child an opportunity to act out his imaginings. Limited space makes advance registration necessary for the half-hour program.

Children wishing to enter the library's poster contest to promote the national week have until 5 p.m. this Saturday to submit an entry. The theme this year is "You've Got a Right to Read." Competitors are encouraged to use their originality and imagination in both materials and design.

Posters will be displayed at the library from April 12 to 30. Entry rules may be obtained in the children's department.

Adults are invited to drop in for coffee between 9 and 11 a.m. during the celebration week, and for those who work during the day, the library has planned a lunch-hour program of short films from 12:30 to 1:30, Monday to Friday of that week.

ECOLOGY WEEKEND SET

By Hopewell Twp. Commission. The Hopewell Township Conservation Commission has designated April 23 - 25 as Hopewell Valley Conservation Weekend in an effort to focus attention on conservation and ecology in Hopewell Township.

For a three-day period, the newly-formed commission will coordinate a number of conservation activities including an ecology rally, exhibits and associated information programs. These will be run in conjunction with township-wide cleanup and collection efforts.

The purpose of this undertaking is to coordinate the efforts of numerous township groups that currently are working, on their own, to better the community's environment. It is hoped that some of the activities started will continue, and both participants and non-participants will be made more aware of area conservation problems and responsibilities.

Scheduled activities as of this date include an ecology rally at Timberlane School on Friday evening followed by a major recycling program and road side cleanup on Saturday. In addition, some groups are planning exhibits, ecology sales and other special conservation projects. Early participants include the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H groups, Indian Guides and the Hopewell Central High School conservation organization.

Individuals or groups in Hopewell Township wishing to participate in portions of the April 23-25 weekend program are asked to call A. F. Bremble Jr. at 737-2610.

BURGESS TALK SET

By Public Library. "In Search of Shakespeare the Man" is the topic of a program to be given by Anthony Burgess at the Princeton Public Library on Wednesday, April 14, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Burgess, Writer in Residence this year at Princeton University, is internationally known for his many novels. He has also written non-fiction, and is a composer of music. His most recent works published in the United States are "Shakespeare" (1970), and the novel, "MF" (1971), both published by Knopf.

Children's Department of Princeton Public Library is now accepting registrations for its Spring Storyhour Series.

Open to all children ages 3½ to 5, the six-week series of Wednesday morning programs will begin Wednesday April 14 at 10 a.m. The half hour programs will feature old and new story favorites in a twice-a-week group situation. Only children who have been registered may attend.

DEVELOPMENT PLANNED

For 1750 Acres near Belle Mead. Bellemead Development Corp. a wholly owned subsidiary of The Chubb Corporation will develop 1,750 acres in Montgomery and Hillsborough townships in Somerset County for industrial, commercial and residential purposes.

Herbert H. Smith Associates of West Trenton has been commissioned to master plan the design and development of the 1,200 acre Bellemead Tract. A 550 acre Millstone tract is also planned for development.

The Belle Mead tract is located on both sides of the Reading Railroad tracks, where they are crossed by Route 206. The proposed route of I-95 also runs through the land.

PRINCIPAL NAMED

For Plainsboro. Donald M. Rizzo of Bayonne has been appointed principal of the Plainsboro School and Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent of the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional Board of Education.

Mr. Rizzo, who will begin his duties on May 3, succeeds Sandor Havran in his new post.

Since 1956, Mr. Rizzo has been teacher and then Title I Project Coordinator in the Hawkins School of Newark. He holds the B.A. degree from Upsala and has a master's degree and Doctorate Equivalency certificate from Seton Hall. He and his wife have a two year old son.

BLACK MUSIC PLAYED

At Concert. Black musicians performed the music of black composers Friday night of the Princeton Youth Center as the Center opened an exhibit of works by two black painters, Rex Goreleigh and James Edwards.

The concert was the fruit of four weeks of musical detective work to uncover the published, and recorded but unpublished, compositions of black musicians. Amateur musicologists were Don Evans, who directs the Youth Center; Frances Gooding, dramatic soprano who sang on Friday night, and a young pianist named Charles Pettaway who also performed.

It began when Mr. Evans and Miss Gooding heard the albums of black music recorded by the Desto Record Company in Newark. The pianist who had recorded for these albums sent the Center's detectives to George Walker, black composer on the Rutgers faculty. But Mr. Walker knew only the names of compositions and not the publishers, so the hunt deepened.

"Black composers, when they were published, were not published by the regular companies and not handled by the regular music stores," Mr. Evans explains. "We went to ASCAP in New York, where there is a listing of everything ever published, and this led us to a small subsidiary of the G. Schirmer music publishing firm. Of course, that small subsidiary didn't exist any more under its old name, but eventually, we got the last copy of a song cycle by Margaret Bonds called 'Three Dream Portraits' from Langston Hughes' 'The Dream Keeper'."

At Friday's concert, Miss Gooding sang the "Dream Portraits," accompanied by Alice Bridge at the piano. She read the texts of the Hughes poems and then sang them. The music is in a contemporary idiom well suited to Miss Gooding's voice, which has great power and extraordinary accuracy of pitch.

Charles Pettaway, young student at the Philadelphia Musical Academy, also had difficulty finding manuscripts for which he had only the titles. Finally, the librarian in the Philadelphia Public Library unearthed for him the "Yamakraw," a Negro Rhapsody by James P. Johnson, which is said to be the inspiration for Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

Mr. Pettaway had to copy the manuscript — some 26 pages of it — and he played it on Friday night from single manuscript copy sheets.

This particular work, a long one, is full of rhythms and blues reminiscent of the very early days of jazz. In starting contrast, Mr. Pettaway played "Evocation" by Hale Smith, a composition employing sophisticated serial techniques. He also played F. Coleridge Taylor's "Scenes from an Imaginary Ballet."

The concert ended with The Black Souls, three young Princeton University undergraduates who have been playing jazz frequently in the area. Larry Watkins, drums, is a physics major; Fred Tyler, bass, is a member of the Princeton Inn Staff; and Bruce Harris, flute, is a music major.

SCOUTS PLAN MEETING

In Lambertville. On Saturday April 17, the George Washington Council, BSA, will hold its Scoutleader's Shownado at the George Washington Scout Reservation, Lambertville, New Jersey. Registration at the Kerney Lodge begins at 8:30 a.m.

Shownado is a day of Scout activities with men from different Scout units throughout the council area organized into interest groups. Upon arrival the men will visit the "Worth Trying" arena for ideas borrowed from other successful troops in the tri-county area.

Next, a Shownado Trial with 20 stations designed to display as many Scouting skills as possible. These skills will be demonstrated and practiced. In the Shownado Rally, the men will take part in Woodsman activities based on the instruction received along the trail.

Each Scouter or interested adult may attend and bring with him his own lunch, the council will provide the beverage. All other materials ne

J. P. STEVENS & CO. INC.: "No pressing required when these slacks are cleaned in a coin-operated dry cleaning machine."

HAGGAR COMPANY: "Dry clean in a coin-operated machine — no pressing needed."

BRENT: "These tailored slacks are specially treated to keep their all-over, permanently pressed shape. Front and back knife-sharp creases will last the life of the garment. Dry clean only . . . use coin operated machine."

HEATHERDOWNE: "No pressing required when these slacks are cleaned in a coin-operated dry cleaning machine. Best results are obtained when garment is removed from machine as soon as cleaned, then smoothed and placed on hanger."

BOTANY BRANDS, INC.: "This slack can be cleaned in any coin operated dry cleaning machine."

We've been saying this all along! Coin-operated dry cleaning is an efficient, economical method, and we're pleased the garment manufacturers are helping us spread the good ward.

GRANT EXTENDS LIFE

Of Accelerator. A $230,000 grant to Princeton University from the Fannie E. Rippel Foundation of Newark has given a two-month reprieve to the Princeton-Pennsylvania Accelerator, so that biomedical researchers may study the use of high-energy heavy ions in cancer treatment.

Scheduled to close its doors July 1, when funding from the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission runs out, PPA will remain in operation until August 31.

The PPA, which has been managed jointly by Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania, is a 3-billion electron-volt proton synchrotron located on Princeton's James Forrestal Campus. It began operation in 1963 after six years of design and construction. The research complex, which now represents a $40-million investment in plant and equipment, is currently staffed by 60 employees, down from a high of 300 in 1967.

Julius A. Rippel, President of the Rippel Foundation, announced the grant today. Receiving notification of the funding, Dr. Milton G. White, director of the PPA and the Eugene Higgins Professor of Physics at Princeton, commented:

"The generosity of the Rippel Foundation gives the PPA, literally, a new lease on life. The grant will allow us to pursue research in an area of great interest both to medical science and to high-energy physics, and it gives us valuable time in which to seek more long-range sources of funding. For both of these opportunities we are extremely grateful. Without the rapid responsiveness and interest of this private foundation, we would have had to begin closing the PPA on April 1 — probably for all time."

Put simply, the new objective of the PPA staff will be to convert the PPA from an accelerator of protons (hydrogen ions) to an accelerator of nitrogen ions (14 times as heavy as hydrogen), to study their application to cancer therapy and other biomedical problems Dr. White said.

The grant will permit retension of 26 of the present 60 man staff, Dr. White said. That work force will permit 250 hours of accelerator operation per month and a small amount of development work in addition to strictly operating functions.

Dr. White expressed "sincere and great regret" at the necessity for further staff reductions, noting that "the persons we are now forced to lay off are men and women with an irreplaceable wealth of special expertise and experience." He said he hoped that the location of long-range funding would eventually allow the PPA to offer jobs again to some of those most recently laid off.

Modification, to be done by PPA staff members, is already underway and should be completed within a month. After another month to be devoted to the development of new machine techniques, biomedical studies will begin.

A scientific screening committee will probably be organized to recommend a schedule of experiments, Dr. White said. Proposals for experiments are now being received from scientists — physicists, biologists and chemists — across the country.

Dr. White termed the AEC "most cooperative" in allowing the PPA to undertake the new work, and in its willingness to leave at the PPA the accessory equipment and shielding essential to the biomedical work.

If the continuing search for longer-range funding is unsuccessful, Dr. White said, the cancer therapy studies will end August 31 to allow for the subsequent month-long shutdown process.

TAX RESISTANCE

Because a large part of the tax collected by the Federal government is used to pay for continuing the war in Indochina, we are refusing to pay part of our Federal tax this year. Some of us are not paying our income tax. All of us are refusing to pay the 10% Federal tax on telephone service (a tax instituted in 1966 specifically to help finance the Vietnam war). The I.R.S. will eventually collect most of this money, with interest, from our bank accounts, salaries, or personal property, but it takes them at least six months to do so, and costs them much more than they collect. We urge tax refusers in this area to join with us so that our tax resistance will have a greater impact, and so that we can help one another.

WILL BE HELD
AT 8:00 P.M., TUESDAY, APRIL 13

Prof. Eric M. Rogers, an internationally recognized teacher of physics, was honored by his past and present colleagues and friends last week. He is about to retire after 29 years as a member of Princeton University's Department of Physics.

In two afternoon seminars, associates and former students paid tribute to Professor Rogers' widely acclaimed physics textbook, and to his long interest in developing "demonstration experiments" designed to give the non-scientist a broad understanding of physical science.

Speakers were Dr. James E. Failer, Associate Professor of Physics at Wesleyan University, a former Princeton graduate student and faculty colleague of Professor Rogers in the early 1960s; and Dr. Harry F. Meiners, Professor of Physics at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, a longtime friend who shares Professor Rogers' interest in demonstration experiments.

After the lectures, a reception and dinner in Professor Rogers' honor was held in Prospect, the University's faculty staff dining and social facility, with about 100 persons attending.

Professor Rogers, 68, born and educated in England, came to Princeton in 1942 as a Visiting Assistant Professor of Physics, and has been here ever since. His lectures and demonstrations in his Princeton undergraduate physics course for non scientists, "The Methods, Nature and Philosophy of Physical Science," and his textbook have been recognized as outstanding contributions to education.

He received an honorary degree from the College of Wooster, Ohio, in 1958, and in 1969 was awarded the Oersted Medal, the award of the American Association of Physics Teachers for notable contributions to the teaching of physics.

Donald R. Schmidt, 11 Tall Timbers Drive, attended a week's program of advanced study in business and family planning at the 74th C.I.U. Institute at Stetson University, Deland, Fla. A West Point graduate, Mr. Schmidt is a member of the Mercer County, New Jersey and American Bar Associations, holding a degree from Temple Law School. He is an agent for Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. and was named in January as its "Man of the Year."

Crews of Five Colleges to Race Here Saturday

Nine crew races involving 150-lb. and heavyweight shells from five different colleges will highlight Saturday's athletic activity. The big regatta on Lake Carnegie will be followed at 3:30 by lacrosse on Finney Field against Navy, while a track meet with Penn (running events to start at 2) is scheduled for Palmer Stadium.

The first of the races on Carnegie will start at 1:40 when the freshman lightweight crews of Rutgers and Princeton leave the stake boats. Following at ten-minute intervals will be the jayvees and varsities at 150 pounds, with Navy also entered in these two events; the freshmen, jayvees and varsity heavies from Navy and Princeton; and the freshmen, jayvees and varsities from Rutgers, Northeastern and Yale.

The latter three colleges would normally have competed on the Raritan at New Brunswick, but the tides on Saturday are not right for rowing conditions and the three races will be held here. Admission to all events is without charge; fans who want to see the climax of as many as six races in less than an hour should gather around the finish line near the Kingston dam shortly after 2 o'clock. All races will cover the Olympic distance of 2,000 meters.

Princeton opened its season successfully last week with a three-quarter length victory over Rutgers at New Brunswick, thereby retaining possession of the Logg Cup. The crews were even at the halfway mark but the Orange and Black then pulled steadily ahead although understroking the opposition.

The fast winning time of 5:41.1 was recorded with the aid of a strong tail wind. The Tiger freshmen also won from Rutgers but the jayvees lost.

The Tigers lost their third in a row last weekend to Johns Hopkins, a development that presages tough sledding in the Ivy race, inasmuch as Yale has already trimmed the Bluejays, 8 to 4. A disastrous third quarter, which saw the victors outscore Princeton 7 to 2 told the story.

The Orange and Black overcame an early Hopkins lead to hold a 3-2 margin briefly in the second period but fell behind, 4-3, by the time the intermission arrived. The next 15 minutes then hung the Tigers out to dry, the 13-8 loss taking its place with defeats of 18-2 and 19-3 by Virginia and Maryland.

HOME OPENER THURSDAY

For Hun School Nine. The Hun School baseball team will open at home Thursday afternoon at 3:15 when it meets Perkiomen in a Penn-Jersey League game.

After Perkiomen, Hun will be idle for six days until it travels to Pennington School next Wednesday for a 2:30 contest. It was scheduled to open its 15-game schedule this Wednesday against Peddie in Hightstown.

Coach Dave Leete's squad has had two practice games in preparation. Leete reported the squad performed very well against Hamilton Saturday, blanking the Hornets for six innings. Hun, in turn, scored four runs on eight hits. "A lot still depends on the pitching; I'm experimenting with every one," he said.

TIGER NINE ROLLING

Wins Eight of First Nine. Ability to record five victories by one-run margins has made all the difference for Princeton's baseball team at the outset of the 1971 season. All of the close decisions have come the Tigers' way as they move hopefully toward the start of the condensed Eastern Intercollegiate League season and the possibility of their first championship in 18 years.

Coach Eddie Donovan's seemingly balanced team will be at home Thursday at 4 to play Manhattan. On Saturday, the Orange and Black will face Columbia at New York in an EIL doubleheader, while Tuesday will find it at New Brunswick for a game with Rutgers, one of the District II NCAA entries last spring.

Other Sports on Page 18

Sunshine and a lack of bite in the wind brought several hundred spectators to Clarke Field Saturday to watch the doubleheader against Colgate. While the visitors were playing their first game of the season, and had only been outside for practice once, it was nonetheless much to the credit of a pair of Princeton sophomores that they allowed only four hits and no earned runs over a stretch of 14 innings. The Tigers won, 2-1 and 9-0.

John Kinne worked the opener, yielding just two singles, striking out six and missing a shutout on a pair of misplays by his infield. Third baseman John Rooney's bloop single in the second drove in both runs after Captain Ray Huard was hit by a pitch and sophomore second baseman Brady Sadek doubled.

Second Game No Contest. Randy Blevins had everything his own way in the second game as he worked well with the few Colgate runners who got aboard to earn a two-hit shutout. Both he and Kinne had good support save for the inning in which the visitors scored their only run.

A four-run first gave Blevins all the cushion he needed. Senior Bob Schiffner, who hit .357 a year ago, drove in a run with a bases-loaded single and Hank Bjorklund hit safely to right to score two more. The fourth run crossed on a fielder's choice.

The two Princeton runs in the fifth were engineered by what older fans call the "Bill Clarke Special," in memory of the coach for whom the field is named. With Doug Blake on third and Schiffner on second, Huard sacrificed.

The squeeze hunt scored Blake easily and Schiffner, who had also broken with the pitch, kept running and beat the first baseman's throw back to the plate. When the Tigers scored in the next inning on a double steal, they had blended a pleasant afternoon of good pitching, occasional power hitting and a bit of inside baseball.

Rally Tops Temple, 6-5. Trailing 3-0 in the early going, the Tigers caught Temple at 5-all in the sixth at Philadelphia Thursday and then won in the top of the ninth.

Hank Bjorklund opened with a single, took second on an error and reached third when Huard bunted safely. Despite the fact that no one was on the Owls' picher, Dave Thornton, went for a double play on a bouncer back to the box. Not only did Bjorklund score with the lead run but the double play didn't work.

The home team had the bases filled with one out in the last of the ninth but could not score off Jack Hittson. The Princeton senior was tagged for 12 hits but went the distance for his second victory. The victors were held to half that many, winning when Temple chipped in with five errors.

TIGERS FACE NAVY

First Women's Team to Play for Princeton

Another chapter in the changing story on college campuses will be written Monday afternoon when the first women's team to represent Princeton steps out on the University Tennis Courts.

Pennsylvania will be the opponent, in a match scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock, Fittingly, the Princeton coach will be Mrs. Eve Kraft, who has for a number of years been director of the successful Community Tennis Program.

Other precedents will be set during the season. Going into the record books will be results of the first rivalry between Princeton and Barnard, Princeton and Vassar, and Princeton and Radcliffe. All three of those women's colleges will come here to play their matches.

Other opponents are Trenton State and two more Ivy colleges, Yale and Cornell. The team will see little of the outside world — only the match against Yale will be played away from home.

When the regular season ends, however, there is the possibility of competition in various championships, a decision dependent on how well the team performs in its seven matches. The Middle Atlantic Championships are set for Staunton, Va., with the Middle States Tournament at Bryn Mawr, to be followed by the NCAA's in Las Cruces, N.M., in June.

Will the women who make the team win varsity letters? Definitely, says Director of Athletics R. Kenneth Fairman.

PHS LACROSSE CO-CAPTAINS: Mitchell Schoch (right) and Phil Nollner have been named co-captains of the Princeton High School lacrosse team. Schoch plays attack, Nollner midfield.

Sports In Princeton

Earlier, in an informal contest against Notre Dame, Leete said that the team had not done well at all. It was only its fourth day outside.

Leete plans to field a team comprised of Pete Jones in left field, Alan Chalifoux in center and Dennis Skrejewski in right. At third base will be co-captain Mike Guadagno.

Continuing around the horn, Jack Petrone or Kirk Sawyer will be at short, Charles Figueroa at second and freshman Bill Hollowell at first. Greg Rafalski will do the catching and Rick Ziegeler is the number one hurler on a staff that consists, in addition, of Chuck Sista and Chalifoux.

PREP SCHOOLS NEXT

For PHS Lacrosse Team. Loser to Maplewood and Fair lawn in its first two games, the Princeton High School lacrosse team should find the opposition less rugged against a string of prep schools coming up.

Starting next Wednesday, the Little Tigers will face in order, Lawrenceville, Pingry, Peddie, Princeton Day School and Hun. They were scheduled to meet Monaclair Wednesday afternoon at 4 at Community Park field.

"Montclair is the last of the real tough powers," commented PHS coach Marvin Trotman. "I'm hopeful, off our showing against Fairlawn, that we will do better against the prep schools."

Defense Collapses; At Maplewood Saturday, PHS trailed, 5-3, at the end of the second period. Then the roof fell in. The aggressive home team scored nine more goals in the second half to win, 14-3. "Our defense just fell apart," said Trotman.

"They were running four and five teams against us. We just didn't have the manpower to cope with it."

Middy Steve Stone scored one of Princeton's goals on an unassisted play that covered the length of the field. Phil Nollner and Pat Connally got the other two. Both are midfielders.

Two days earlier in its opener at Community Park, PHS almost started in sublime fashion by nearly defeating Fair lawn, the number one team in the state last year. Only two quick goals in the last few minutes enabled the visitors to go home with a 4-3 victory. Last year Fairlawn buried PHS 11-1.

Yes, it was a heartbreaker, Trotman conceded, but added that he was not disappointed by the defeat. "It was sort of a pleasant way to start the in a Family-Engineered SYLVAN POOL!

Nothing holds a family together like the fun of swimming in the sparkling clear water of your own swimming pool. The pleasures of swimming — or just plain splashing — are as old as man himself, and appeal equally to all age groups — toddlers, and senior citizens alike, with no generation gap in between.

Few pleasures in this uptight world can compare with the feeling of physical and mental well-being derived from a relaxing hour in a Sylvan pool. Your step becomes springier, you feel more relaxed. You look, and act years younger.

And a pool by Sylvan is now easier to own than ever before. Regardless of the size of your budget — there is a Family-Engineered Sylvan pool for you. In rugged vinyl-liner ALL-ALUMINUM, or UNIPOUR Concrete — the pool so well engineered, it comes with a lifetime structural guarantee.

But Sylvan's celebrated construction, and down-to-earth pricing is only part of the story. A Sylvan pool is an automatic pool, thanks to ACPS — the all new, more time for fun — AUTOMATIC CLEANING and PURIFYING SYSTEM. Measured against Sylvan's work-saving ACPS, other automatic pools seem "stick-shift" by comparison.

AND ACPS IS YOURS AT NO ADDITIONAL COST, IF YOU ORDER YOUR SYLVAN POOL NOW, DURING THIS "PRE-SEASON" PERIOD!

ACPS is now available in both our UNIPOUR concrete pool, and the rugged ALL-ALUMINUM vinyl-liner pool. Both pools come in a large variety of sizes and shapes.

Now is the time to take advantage of our off-season pricing.

Before you take the plunge, be sure to talk to Sylvan!

season, showing so well against Fairlawn," he said.

Kevin Smith's goal gave PHS a 1-0 lead but the visitors tied it at the end of the first period. Goals by Joe McGuinn and Stone put PHS in the lead again and the Little Tigers made it stand up until the unhappy final few minutes.

Trotman started Mitchell Schoch, George Cawley and McGuinn at attack; Smith, Stone, Connelly at midfield and Dave O'Brien, LonJohn Rossi and John Drummond, each weighing 205, at defense. Nick Robinson was goalie.

TRACKMEN OPEN AWAY

At Bridgewater - Raritan Thursday. A schedule change has left the Princeton High School track team faced with a hurry up and wait situation.

Coach Larry Ivan's squad will open a 12 dual meet season Thursday afternoon at Bridgewater Raritan. It will have to wait a week, however, before it competes again, because the St. Anthony meet set for Tuesday had to be postponed.

Bolster Is Captain. Joe Bolster, starting his fourth year as a miler for the team, has been elected captain of the Blue and White squad by his teammates. He and Lawrence Parker led the team last year in points.

PHS GIRLS WIN

In Tennis. The Princeton High School girls' tennis team wasn't fooling around when it played Pennsbury April 1. It won, 4 1/2 to 1/2.

Susan White, Sheri Baumer and Carol Middlebrook triumphed in singles play by scores of 9-7, 6-3; 6-3, 6-3; and 6-1, 6-0. Karen Gordon and Dominique VanDeWalle won their doubles match without the loss of a single game, but Barbie Sheehan and Penny Henry split sets in a marathon match that had to be called. Ralph Heyman is the team coach.

LAKE RACES TO START

On Sunday. The regular racing season will begin Sunday on Carnegie Lake, and all potential sailors are urged to come out and participate in the three classes of the Carnegie Sailing Club.

New this year will be the awarding of cups to junior sailors under 17 in the Sunfish class. All young skippers are urged to compete for the Junior Cup each Sunday.

In informal tune-up races held on Sunday, John Hopfield won top honors in the Penguin class. Bob Holzman and Jim McPherson defied tradition that the previous season's champion rarely does well in spring training by winning the Sunfish and 14 foot Sloop races.

Dartmouth Early-Line Football Favorite to Repeat

Dartmouth's defending champions should repeat when the Ivy League starts playing football again next fall. That, at least, is the opinion of the eight directors of sports information, who held their annual meeting last week at Hanover.

The Indians, to be coached next season by Jake Crouthamel, a Dartmouth alumnus who succeeded Bob Blackman, drew a total of 41 points in the Tub Thumper's Poll. Each man votes for the seven other colleges, but not his own, with points awarded on a basis of seven for first place, six for second, etc.

Yale should again be the runner up if this forecast is correct, the Elis polling 37 points. Harvard and Cornell, each receiving 36, tied for third place.

Princeton, so the thinking goes, will do no better than its fifth place finish of 1970, although the Tigers did pick up two votes for first place among the 35 points they were given. Dartmouth drew three to repeat; Harvard got two and Yale the other one.

Columbia is figured to finish sixth; Brown and Penn tied for last place with ten points each.

DAN BARREN RESIGNS

From PDS Post. Daniel J. Barren, director of athletics and head football coach at Princeton Day School since 1965, has resigned to become head football coach at Southwestern Central High School, Jamestown, N. Y., starting August 15.

PDS headmaster Douglas O. McClure, who is currently interviewing candidates for the dual position, said that a successor will be announced soon.

In the four years he coached PDS football on the varsity level, Barren compiled a record of 11-20-1. His best season came last year, when the Panthers fought to a surprising second place finish in the Penn-Jersey League behind Friendliness at Princeton's First goes more than smile deep. It goes all the way to our pocketbook. To illustrate the point, we've just lowered our interest rate on new car loans.

Frankly, we didn't lower the rate just to prove we're nice people. We did it because we'd like to have your business. Perhaps that's why we smile so much. People have been bringing us their banking business for more than three-quarters of a century. That's enough to make even a banker smile.

Hun, and a 5-2-1 mark overall.

Barren's successor will not be stepping into an enviable position as head football coach. The nucleus of last year's team, a group of seniors that played both ways, will be gone. So will the one holdover who could have played the central role in rebuilding a new team: Peter McCandless will transfer to Andover for his final year.

Recognizing its problems, in terms of personnel, not just in football, but other sports as well, PDS has dropped out of the Penn-Jersey League, effective at the end of this season. Next year it will begin to play smaller schools in all sports and that should help.

BOWLING NOTES

Firemen Race Close. Only six points or three games separate the top seven teams in the Tri-County Firemen's League, where No. 3, Lawrenceville and Dutch Neck are all tied for first place at 42 all. Kingston and K.F.D. have 40 each.

High man last week at the Princeton Recreation Lanes was No. 3's Frank Maddalon, who rolled 192-220. Vernon Roszel of Dutch Neck also had a 220. Ray Slovinsky, Joe Ratcliff and Walter Herrmann had 208, 202 and 200 respectively. In the 190s were Joe Pfister, Bill Richardson, Bob Micinski, Wally Brown and Ken Wible.

Joe Matlack's 234 was the high single game in the Nassau League. His Hinkson's teammate Tony Amalfitano had 212. Mike Koplimer and John Baldino of first-place Tiger Garage rolled 220 and 205. Others: Fred Gocke, 222; Albert Petrella, 205; Alex Drummand, 203; and Vince Tufano, 202.

Princeton Aviation trails Tiger, 52-48, while Hinkson's has 46 points and First Aid 44.

Hesco Electric and Stefanelli have reduced the A League to a two-team race. Hesco holds a 52-50 margin at the moment.

Jim Shely, Joe Procaccini and Tony Cifelli of Hesco rolled 216, 204, 201, while Tony Amalfitano of Stefanelli had 205. High were Jim Carter and Wes Cawley with 224 and 223. Joe Baldino rolled 203; John Cifelli, 200.

Jamie Petrone fashioned a 516 series in the Blue Angels Hi-Y League with 169-186-161. Greg Kline had 191 and George Reynolds, 140-147.

Jean Bucci of first place Bucci Builders in the Business Women's League, rolled 88 pins over her average on her way to a fine 215 game. Dot Thorsell and Sara Rowe had 185 and 183. Others: Mella Cruser, 180; Alice Frazzetta, 175; and Eleanor Pinelli, 174.

Balestrieri trails Bucci in the standings, 48-44. Rocky Hill Inn and Rocky & Sons are tied for third at 42-apiece.

LET'S HEAR IT!

For Lynda Hafenmaier Cranbury Bank's Lynda Hafenmaier rolled one of the better games in the Princeton Women's Bowling League last week, fashioning a 223. On the way to a 527 series, she also converted the 3-6-7 split.

Lynda helped Cranbury set the high team series of 1923; Cranbury also tied Mix Ups for high team game honors of 666.

Flo Ivins of Used Car Mart rolled 203-189 (522). Other high single games were: Joyce Paserb, 184; Sue Goodwin, 182; Betty Pinelli, 178; Marilyn Silvester, 175; Catherine McDonald, 171; and Margaret Chilcote, 170.

Hamilton Supply Company replaced Spinners as runner-up in the standings, amassing 52 points to 50 for Spinners. Swift's Colonial Diner continues to lead the eight-team league with 56 points.

Court Conflict Exists

The tennis courts at Community Park opened officially on Saturday, but the Recreation Department wishes to caution buffs that the courts receive heavy use at certain hours while schools are still in session.

They are used from 3 to 4:30 Monday through Friday for classes from the Princeton Regional Schools and private schools here.

"These are our busiest hours, it's a little hectic then," said Donald Barr, executive director of the Recreation Department. He advised individuals to plan their play to avoid those hours until schools close in June.

Surround yourself with trees, grass and history.

There's plenty of all three on what may be the highest spot between New York and Philadelphia. Certainly it's one of the most historic, if not the most beautiful. • Just 15 homes will be custom built from your plans or ours abutting Greenacres Country Club Golf Course. Each will share in a sweep of common land . . . and in views and privacy all but vanished these days. • Isn't all this worth $50,000 or more?
